

DIRECTORS OF LIBRARY ARE GIVEN TASKS

Plans for local observance of the first National Library Week beginning March 16 were reviewed by members of the board of directors of the Adams County Free Library Friday evening at a meeting at which new circulation peaks were reported and standing committees for the year were named and given immediate assignments.

President C. P. Keefe presided at the meeting and asked the librarian, Mrs. Mary S. Wilson, to review plans for library week observance here that will include window displays, posters, a radio program and other publicity channels.

In her monthly report, the librarian said February's snowdrifts cut bookmobile routes and total circulation for the month but book loans at the main library were up 30 per cent over February of last year to a new high of 5,192.

569 Loans In One Day

Total circulation for February was 23,520 as compared with 24,686 in February of last year but Mrs. Wilson pointed out that some schools could not be reached and the disrupted schedules prevented reports being gathered from some of the book stations in the county. Despite the snows, the bookmobile trips reported 17,317 loans in the four-week period.

February saw a new mark set for loans in a single day at the main library. There were 569 book loans one Tuesday in February, Mrs. Wilson said, to top all previous records for one day's business there.

President Keefe made these committee assignments: Property, John V. Crow, chairman; Dean Asquith, co-chairman; Mrs. Ira Henderson, the Rev. Amos D. Meyers and Mrs. C. T. Ziegler, and finance, Attorney H. Thomas Fyle, chairman; Dr. Frank N. Hewelson, co-chairman; Miss Ann Faber, Mrs. Leon D. Roos and Allen S. Stauffer.

Assigns Committee Tasks

The president directed the Property committee to make a complete inspection of the library property and to consider plans for developing a music room and music system at the main library building. The heating plant there, which may have to be replaced this summer, also is in the committee's assignment.

Gettysburg firemen were called Friday night at 8 o'clock when a tractor-trailer loaded with bananas caught fire near Coleman's store on the Biglerville Rd.

PENSINGER WINS BEST PRINT OF YEAR 4TH TIME

Paul G. Pensinger's portrait, "Harem Beauty," was judged the best photograph of the year at the annual Ladies' Night dinner meeting of the Gettysburg Photographic Society Friday evening at Trinity United Church of Christ social hall. The judges were Paul A. Kinsey, Reading, former local manager of the Metropolitan Edison company, and Brison P. Merritt, also of Reading, an interior decorator and well-known photographer.

Pensinger also won the third best photograph award with his "Miss Butterfly." Maurice Stoops' photograph, "Door," won second prize.

Pensinger set a record that is rare in photographic annals. He has won the "best photograph" of the year award for four consecutive years.

3 In Competition

In Friday evening's judging, three of Pensinger's prints were retained through the judging of approximately 50 entries down through the selection of the seven best. At this point the two judges admitted "we were stuck" and it was sometime before they eliminated two, one of those being one of Pensinger's.

When Mrs. Pensinger was presented with a bouquet of flowers for her husband's prize-winning print she accepted it with thanks and then presented it to Mrs. Maurice Stoops saying: "We've won this prize four times. That's too much. We want you to have it this year."

LOCAL HOSPITAL IS GIVEN AGAIN ACCREDITATION

The Annie M. Warner Hospital has again been placed on the accredited list of hospitals by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. It has been accredited annually for several years.

Statistics show, said Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director, that of the 7,000 eligible hospitals over 4,500 have applied and of this number about 75 per cent are accredited. Of the total number of hospitals eligible (7,000) for survey the percentage accredited is 50.7 per cent. Accreditation of a hospital has been likened by many to "sterling on silver." It is a mark of distinction and earned by high standards of care.

Voluntary Survey

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals is an agency established by five organizations — The American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association, American Medical Association, and the Canadian Medical Association — to conduct the hospital survey and inspection program initiated by the American College of Surgeons in 1919. The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals began operations on January 1, 1953.

"Accreditation of a hospital means," Dr. Babcock said, "that it has voluntarily submitted to a survey of its facilities and its patient care. It is a badge of recognition which the hospital can display to its community to prove that it conforms to high standards of patient care."

Dr. Babcock said that the survey is undertaken on a confidential basis between the hospital and the commission. "Therefore," he said, "the commission cannot release any information about its work other than the annual list published herewith. All information concerning a specific hospital must be obtained from the hospital itself."

BIBLE GROUP MEETS FRIDAY

The annual executive committee meeting of the Gettysburg Bible Society was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. C. Culp, 369 York St. Mrs. H. E. Berkey, president, presided and read the devotion.

One hundred copies of a brief history of the 111-year-old Gettysburg society have been printed and 20 copies donated to the ministers and committee members of the society. It was announced that copies of the history are available for 25 cents each.

The local society has purchased 23 copies of the large print New Testament and Psalms for sale to those who need them.

The group decided to again have a window display of the American Bible Society's publication several weeks before Universal Bible Sunday.

ALERTNESS OF GIRL, 10, HELPS TO SAVE HOME

The alertness and coolness of Deborah Beldier, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. Willis Beldier, Biglerville, probably saved the Beldier residence from considerable fire damage Friday afternoon.

When she returned home from school she turned on the television set. Her mother was enroute home from Gettysburg at the time.

Deborah smelled smoke and found a blaze in the garage. She telephoned for the Biglerville fire department and then went across the street to seek further assistance at the Elmer Yoder home. She told her mother: "That's what they taught us to do in school last year."

Stops Spread of Fire

As a result of her prompt action the fire was confined to the garage. Biglerville assistant chiefs Harold Smallwood and Clair Settle said the blaze burned studding and charred insulation in the garage in addition to burning tools, skis, bicycles, sleds, lawn mower, golf clubs, etc., stored in the two-car garage.

Settle said Deborah's action, plus the insulation, prevented the fire from spreading into the house. The ceiling of the garage was badly burned, but the fire did not penetrate through the insulation into the room above.

No estimate of damage was immediately available pending the arrival of insurance adjusters this afternoon.

CC CHAIRMEN MEET

A meeting of chairmen of the various committees of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber office, Plaza Building. President Julian Estep announced today.

"The Power Of Faith", An Inspiring New Feature, To Start In Times On Friday

An impressive new religious art feature will be introduced to you next Friday in this newspaper.

Called "The Power of Faith," it is drawn by the famous magazine artists, Howard Brodie. A man of deep religious convictions who also writes the brief text that goes with each drawing. There will be one issue a week.

In each instance, picture and text will bring out the power and faith involved in some contemporary, or historical, or Biblical situation. Many of you will regard these drawings as little less than modern religious masterpieces. Our suggestion is that you save them for a scrapbook that you surely will want to refer to time and again in years to come.

Opportune Time

The series appears at a time when the nation-wide religious movement seems to be gaining new momentum, but Brodie started preparing himself for it fifteen years ago, during World War II.

Even before the war, Brodie had made a reputation for himself as a newspaper and magazine artist,

HERE AND THERE

"Masters of Deceit," the story of communism in America, by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which will be published next Monday should be a "must" reading for every American.

Mr. Hoover reveals how communism was founded, how it grew and spread almost around the world, its treachery, its steadfast purpose to swallow the United States and make all Americans slaves of the Russians.

Many interesting facts thus are revealed. For instance, Mr. Hoover tells how William Z. Foster, former national chairman of the Communist party in the United States, in 1949, dedicated his book "The Twilight of World Capitalism" to my great-grandson, Joseph Manley Kolko, who will live in a Communist United States."

Here are some other excerpts from "Masters of Deceit":

"These words of Russia's top Party boss and one of the highest ranking communists in the United States reveal the nature of the enemy we face. To make the United States a Communist nation is the ambition of every party member, regardless of position or rank. He works constantly to make this dream a reality, to steal your rights, liberties, and property. Even though he lives in the United States."

LOCAL HOSPITAL IS GIVEN AGAIN ACCREDITATION

The Annie M. Warner Hospital has again been placed on the accredited list of hospitals by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals. It has been accredited annually for several years.

Statistics show, said Dr. Kenneth B. Babcock, commission director, that of the 7,000 eligible hospitals over 4,500 have applied and of this number about 75 per cent are accredited. Of the total number of hospitals eligible (7,000) for survey the percentage accredited is 50.7 per cent. Accreditation of a hospital has been likened by many to "sterilizing on silver." It is a mark of distinction and earned by high standards of care.

Voluntary Survey
The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals is an agency established by five organizations — The American College of Physicians, American College of Surgeons, American Hospital Association, American Medical Association, and the Canadian Medical Association — to conduct the hospital survey and inspection program initiated by the American College of Surgeons in 1919. The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals began operations on January 1, 1953.

"Accreditation of a hospital means," Dr. Babcock said, "that it has voluntarily submitted to a survey of its facilities and its patient care. It is a badge of recognition which the hospital can display to its community to prove that it conforms to high standards of patient care."

Dr. Babcock said that the survey is undertaken on a confidential basis between the hospital and the commission. "Therefore," he said, "the commission cannot release any information about its work other than the annual list published herewith. All information concerning a specific hospital must be obtained from the hospital itself."

BIBLE GROUP MEETS FRIDAY

The annual executive committee meeting of the Gettysburg Bible Society was held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. C. C. Culp, 369 York St. Mrs. H. E. Berkey, president, presided and read the devotion.

Mrs. Culp, treasurer, reported $285 sent to the American Bible Society and read a letter from the secretary of the American Bible Society commending the work of the local society.

One hundred copies of a brief history of the 111-year-old Gettysburg society have been printed and 20 copies donated to the ministers and committee members of the society. It was announced that copies of the history are available for 25 cents each.

The local society has purchased 23 copies of the large print New Testament and Psalms for sale to those who need them.

The group decided to again have a window display of the American Bible Society's publication several weeks before Universal Bible Sunday.

ALERTNESS OF GIRL, 10, HELPS TO SAVE HOME

The alertness and coolness of Deborah Beidler, 10-year-old daughter of Mrs. J. Willis Beidler, Biglerville, probably saved the Beidler residence from considerable fire damage Friday afternoon.

When she returned home from school she turned on the television set. Her mother was enroute home from Gettysburg at the time.

Deborah smelled smoke and found a blaze in the garage. She telephoned for the Biglerville fire department and then went across the street to seek further assistance at the Elmer Yoder home. She told her mother: "That's what they taught us to do in school last year."

As a result of her prompt action the fire was confined to the garage. Biglerville assistant chiefs Harold Smallwood and Clair Settle said the blaze burned studding and charred insulation in the garage in addition to burning tools, skis, bicycles, sleds, lawn mower, golf clubs, etc., stored in the two-car garage.

Settle said Deborah's action, plus the insulation, prevented the fire from spreading into the house. The ceiling of the garage was badly burned, but the fire did not penetrate through the insulation into the room above.

No estimate of damage was immediately available pending the arrival of insurance adjusters this afternoon.

CC CHAIRMEN MEET

A meeting of chairmen of the various committees of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in the Chamber office, Plaza Building. President Julian Estep announced today.

"The Power Of Faith", An Inspiring New Feature, To Start In Times On Friday

An impressive new religious art feature will be introduced to you next Friday in this newspaper.

Called "The Power of Faith," it is drawn by the famous magazine artists, Howard Brodie, a man of deep religious convictions who also writes the brief text that goes with each drawing. There will be one issue a week.

In each instance, picture and text will bring out the power and faith involved in some contemporary, or historical, or Biblical situation. Many of you will regard these drawings as little less than modern religious masterpieces. Our suggestion is that you save them for a scrapbook that you surely will want to refer to time and again in years to come.

Opportune Time
The series appears at a time when the nation-wide religious movement seems to be gaining new momentum, but Brodie started preparing himself for it fifteen years ago, during World War II.

Even before the war, Brodie had made a reputation for himself as a newspaper and magazine artist.

The program will include "representations of the finest in traditional Christian sacred music."

"Masters of Deceit," the story of communism in America, by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, which will be published next Monday should be a "must" reading for every American.

Mr. Hoover reveals how communism was founded, how it grew and spread almost around the world, its treachery, its steadfast purpose to swallow the United States and make all Americans slaves of the Russians.

Many interesting facts this are revealed. For instance, Mr. Hoover tells how William Z. Foster, former national chairman of the Communist party in the United States, in 1949, dedicated his book "The Twilight of World Capitalism" to my great-grandson, Joseph Manley Kolk, who will live in a Communist United States."

Here are some other excerpts from "Masters of Deceit":
"These words of Russia's top Party boss and one of the highest ranking communists in the United States reveal the nature of the enemy we face. To make the United States a Communist nation is the ambition of every party member, regardless of position or rank. He works constantly to make this dream a reality, to steal your rights, liberties, and property. Even though he lives in the United States..."

FIRE DESTROYS BROODER HOUSE

Roy Tate, Biglerville R. 2, was injured Friday night when an oil stove exploded in his brooder house, destroying the building.

A 26 by 60 foot brooder house, 2,000 chicks, and a pet dog were destroyed in the blaze at the Tate farm about 8 o'clock Friday night.

Mr. Tate had placed the chicks in the house earlier Friday and had gone to the brooder house about 8 o'clock, accompanied by a three-year-old pet Collie dog, to check the stoves in the coop.

When he was about to leave the building a stove exploded. A second explosion followed. Tate suffered minor burns as he fled the building. Other explosions followed in quick succession and the structure burned to the ground. Arendtsville firemen headed by Assistant Chief Elliott Schlosser responded and prevented spread of the fire to other structures.

Tate this morning estimated his loss at about $2,500 and said it was partially covered by insurance.

C. P. KEEFER IS CANDIDATE FOR 4-YEAR TERM

Clarence P. Keefer, New Oxford, who in January, 1957, became Adams County superintendent of schools, today announced his candidacy for a four-year term in the position.

He is the only candidate to announce so far for the superintendency which will be filled by the directors of Adams County's schools at their annual convention April 8.

Today is the last day for announcing of intention to seek the position.

Advances In Year
Mr. Keefer has aided in Adams County schools as a principal and guidance counselor and teacher for a number of years before becoming assistant county superintendent of schools about three years ago. He advanced to the superintendency upon the resignation of Superintendent H. Edgar Riegle to accept the post of Gettysburg superintendent of schools in January, 1957.

Since he became superintendent Mr. Keefer has aided in the development of the Bermudian Springs Joint School System, which came about in its present form with the dissolution of the former Conewago Joint School System. He has also been active in aiding various districts with school building programs and his year as superintendent has been marked by a great increase in the special service programs for county school children. Among achievements was the selection last fall of a teacher for blind children — the first such teacher in the state.

Special Music
The speaker said that as a nation, the United States has benefited from "the great ideals and faith of the colonists and by our great resources and great leaders, men of character, ability and devotion to God who have woven a unique way of life for our nation. Men are governed by God or ruled by tyrants," he added in quoting William Penn.

ASPERS COUPLE CLAIMS FRAUD

Robert P. and Lucille J. Aspers, Aspers R. 1, allege fraud in their answer filed with the county promissory note in the action in assumpsit brought against them by U. S. Buyers Report Inc., Chicago.

The Chicago concern sued the Aspers for $575 which it said was due it for an advertisement appearing in the National Buyer's Guide listing the Aspers' Grocery and Feed Mill at Aspers R. 1 for sale. In the answer filed today for the Aspers by their attorney, Daniel E. Teeter, they deny signing any agreement to take a one-fourth page display advertisement in the Chicago publication.

They admit that a "J. Kelly," who is listed by the Chicago company as their agent who secured the Aspers' names to the contract, visited them on the date alleged, November 23, 1955.

But they claim Kelly represented himself as being from National Business and Property Exchange Inc., and said he told them they were signing an agreement to permit the National Business and Property Exchange to sell their property, "solely on the understanding that there be no obligation if no sale resulted."

They held that the plaintiff did not include in the exhibits of the case a part of the agreement of which Kelly wrote a section that there would be no pay if no sale and held "the defendants believe and allege the agent obtained the signatures by deliberate and calculated fraud, false representation and deceit."

Firemen Answer First Call Thursday

The South Mountain Volunteer Fire Company answered its first alarm at 7 a.m. Thursday.

The new pump was put in service at the home of Donald Martin, a Letterkenny worker, who resides in Adams County. A hot chimney fire threatened the Martin home. Water from booster lines was used to soak down the hot spot.

South Mountain purchased a 500-gallon Chevrolet pumper some months ago but was unable to use the apparatus because the fire house was not heated. Because of the cold it was impossible to keep water in the booster tanks.

The vehicle was officially put in service several weeks ago when oil heat was installed in the engine-house.

Young Father, Hungry And Penniless, Remains Honest

By BERNARD H. GOULD
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Larry Ford stood in front of a market window nine days ago. There was food inside, and Larry and his wife and baby were hungry.

Larry had 22 cents in his pocket. He had been out of work a month. The 19-year-old father was desperate. He broke the window.

For the next 10 minutes he tried to make a decision.

Should he turn criminal, reach in and take the food? Or should he stay honest—and hungry?

After 10 minutes of standing before that broken window—a witness later confirmed the time—Larry Ford decided he would remain an honest man. He walked away.

"I couldn't do it," he told police later when they found him and put him in jail.

Won't Press Charges
Today, Larry is out of jail. The storekeeper, whose market Larry nearly robbed, declined to press charges.

From throughout the country has come a tide of letters all for Larry Ford, all saying, in effect: "You're okay in our book."

Many enclosed money to help Larry get back on his feet. Amounts from $1 to $25. It seemed to be a way of saying: "Honesty DOES pay."

Two persons wrote offering jobs. The letters, about 50 in all, were sent to police headquarters, either addressed to Larry or for forwarding to him. Detective Herb Fischer said more than $300 has been received so far, and more money is coming in.

May Work On Farm
Fischer and Sgt. James Heise arrested Larry but, after learning of the circumstances, they gave the Fords food and money.

Fischer doesn't know if Larry has accepted either of the jobs said Larry's pregnant wife, Jane Ellen, 16, sounded quite happy at the prospect of her husband going to work on a farm in Kentucky.

Larry, who only nine days ago thought he didn't have a friend in the world, is now trying to decide how he, his wife and 4-month-old baby can say thanks to so many.

Declines Dance Offer For Physical Reasons

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — "Sir, I am calling to inform you that you have been awarded a $35 dancing scholarship at (a local) dance studio," said a sweet young thing in a telephone call to Col. George S. Wallace.

"Young lady, I'm almost a hundred years old and can't walk," replied Wallace to the astonished caller.

"AN ANGEL'S KISS"

I felt the touch of velvet lips
... press tenderly on mine
... like lily buds unfolding
... so wonderfully divine
... bliss unlike any worldly kind
... filled me with love and hope
... showering my heart with strength
... to climb life's rugged slope
... with such a kiss the world was mine
... to do with what I may
... a warm, enraging guiding light
... to guide me on the way
... deep down inside I thought about ... how blessed I was to feel ... enchantment beyond wildest dreams
... so pure and sweet and real
... a story told without a word
... a narrative sublime
... a garden in the wilderness
... blooming throughout all time
... to think that this was mine
... such treasure to unfold
... the priceless kiss of angel lips
... from one just six years old.

DEATHS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP) — W. E. (Bill) Flannery, 53, speaker of the West Virginia House of Delegates from 1949 until last month, died Friday, apparently of a heart ailment. He had served in the House of Delegates since 1944. Flannery was a Democrat.

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — Luther C. Lau Sr., 69, retired advertising manager of the Beaumont Enterprise who had held similar posts on newspapers in Nashville, Tenn.; Little Rock, Shreveport and Fort Worth, died Friday. He had been ill several years.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. John L. Hines, 81, wife of a former Army chief of staff, Gen. John L. Hines, died Friday. She was the daughter of Gen. and Mrs. William F. Wherry.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Mrs. Leldon Backes, almost totally deaf for the whole of her married life, has just had an operation to restore her hearing. And she's found her kitchen is a pretty noisy place.

MAY SUE SON OF CHURCHILL FOR HIS TV FLARE

NEW YORK (AP) — Television interviewer John Wingate says he is considering legal action against Randolph Churchill, son of Sir Winston, for remarks Churchill made in reference to Wingate's father during a television program Thursday night. Wingate said his assistant also is considering a suit.

Churchill, who had been in this country on a lecture tour, was interviewed by Wingate on the WABD "Night Beat" program.

Churchill's verbal explosion came when Wingate indirectly brought up Randolph's sister, actress Sarah Churchill, who was fined in California last Jan. 16 for public drunkenness.

Without mentioning the charge against her, Wingate asked:

Called "Hired Hack"

"Do you think the American press took unfair advantage of the Churchill name in obviously an unfortunate situation?"

Churchill blew up. Among other things he said was "I never discuss matters affecting members of my family with total strangers" and "you sent a hired hack to me to discuss the topics you wished to discuss; this was not one of those he raised."

Churchill also told Wingate: "I wouldn't think of asking you about your sisters... or what your mother has done or who your father was. I don't know if you even had a father, or if you know who your father was..."

10-Minute Trade

Wingate remained calm throughout the 10-minute trade. The program is 1/2 hour long.

Last night, Wingate said he is considering legal action against Churchill for his reference to his father.

Wingate said Ray Weiss, his assistant, also is considering legal action in connection with Churchill's calling him a "hired hack."

Weiss told newsmen that he did not mention Sarah Churchill to his brother when he interviewed him prior to the program. Weiss added, however, that Churchill had not requested that the subject be ignored on the program.

Churchill won a $14,000 libel suit against the British Sunday newspaper, The People, in October 1956. The award was based largely on the fact that the paper called Churchill a "hired hack."

Churchill left by plane yesterday for London, but his trip had been arranged prior to the TV interview.

PLAN PROJECTS FOR SCOUTS OF CONEWAGO AREA

Plans for various Conewago District Boy Scout activities were made at a meeting Thursday night at the Hanover Elks Home, with Paul F. Worcester, district chairman, in charge.

A work week will be held at Camp Conewago, March 22 and 23, when the buildings there will be repaired and painted by the men, leaders with the aid of a spraying machine to be brought from Camp Tuckahoe. Meals will be provided for those assisting. The district will hold a nature course at Camp Conewago April 26 and 27, and the Camporee will be held May 24 and 25.

Matthew Gabrys, chairman of the Leadership Training Course, announced that a regional training institute would be held at Bloomsburg State Teachers' College, April 15, with each chairman to make arrangements for his men attending.

Has 41 Units

Eugene L. Border, chairman of the Organization and Extension Committee, reported that the district now has 41 units composed of 442 Cubs, 375 Scouts and 221 Explorers or 34.1 per cent of its goal of 50 per cent of available boys in the area.

The district is behind its quota in advancements for the first time, Paul E. Auman, Advancement Committee chairman, reported. He said that it is probable that reports on boards of review and advancements already held had not been turned in.

Ten Explorers have signed to attend Camp Philmont this summer, and one troop has registered to attend Camp Tuckahoe. The merit badge and handicraft show held in the Clearview Shopping Center was a success with 27 of the 39 units taking part. Attendance at the training courses now being held at Gettysburg College are not up to expectations, it was stated.

Dayne Garrett was appointed chairman of the Get Together Meeting to be held at Camp Conewago in June. Stuart Allard was named as assistant.

The showing of a film on district operation was the closing feature of the meeting.

BIRTH RECORD STRICKEN FROM COUNTY BOOKS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa. (AP) — Luzerne County Orphans Court President Judge Paul R. Selecky yesterday ordered the certificate of the birth of Russell Bufalino stricken from the county records.

After a hearing on the petition to void the record, filed by Bufalino's attorney, Ettore Agolino, Judge Selecky ruled that the birth certificate was erroneous and that it had not been possible to determine its source.

Bufalino, who has been identified as one of a group of men who attended an Apalachin, N. Y., meeting which has been labeled a crime convention, is currently fighting deportation proceedings.

In hearings in Philadelphia, the Immigration Service introduced testimony that he was born in Sicily.

The Luzerne County birth certificate, stricken yesterday, stated he was born in Pittston Township Oct. 29, 1903.

Before granting the petition to void the birth certificate, Judge Selecky attempted without success to ascertain how the fraudulent birth certificate got into the county files.

George Messnick, a handwriting expert for the FBI, testified he was unable to link the writing on the certificate to that of any present or past employee of the register of wills office. He said further the writing appeared to be an attempt to simulate that of other certificates on the same paper in the county files.

Rev. Howard J. McCahey, pastor of St. Matthew's Lutheran Church, Hanover, spoke on "What Happens in Athletics" at the Ladies' Night dinner meeting of the Littlestown Lions Club Thursday evening in St. John's Lutheran Church social hall.

Seek Pact Between Ecuador And Peru

QUITO, Ecuador (AP) — Brazil is making a fresh attempt to get Ecuador and Peru to settle their longtime border dispute. Brazil's foreign minister, Jose Carlos Macedo Soares, was to leave today for Lima after spending several days trying to get the Ecuadorian government to agree to further negotiations.

Soares and Ecuadorian Foreign Minister Carlos Tobar Zaldumbide last night signed a pact calling for peaceful settlement of disputes between Latin American neighbors.

PENSINGER WINS

of General Meade's headquarters were given honorable mention.

All the entries were presented to the judges three times. On many occasions the judges carefully and closely scrutinized a photograph for tone, texture and highlighting.

At the conclusion of the judging Kinsey said: "These are some of the most beautiful prints I've ever seen. We were up against it to select the three best photographs and it required considerable study to reach a decision. We also decided that two others deserved honorable mention."

Shows Prize Pictures
Merritt showed 58 prize-winning photographs he had made during the past years and explained how each was made, the paper used and the method of processing.

He closed his talk by showing four color prints he had made of a stone mill in Pennsylvania, illustrating how he changed the color of the print during the four processes.

Guests introduced at the dinner included: Mr. and Mrs. Kinsey, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. Donley, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Fortenbaugh and Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Roy.

FRANCE VOTES TO PUSH FIGHT AGAINST REBS

PARIS (AP) — Despite deep-seated parliamentary discontent with France's Algerian policy, the National Assembly voted last night to intensify the war against the Algerian rebels.

On a vote of confidence in Premier Felix Gaillard's government, the Assembly approved 288-147 his revised military budget of 1,300 billion francs — more than three billion dollars.

Only a few deputies besides the Communists were willing to go on record against the war budget but 160 deputies were absent or abstained, so the vote of approval was by a minority of the Assembly.

Boost Algeria Spending
The new budget cuts some 95 billion francs — 226 million dollars — from other military needs to increase spending in Algeria. Within the limits of a trained national budget, Gaillard told the deputies, "we are giving an absolute priority to the needs of pacification (in Algeria)." But, he said, there was no money available for transfer from nonmilitary budgets.

The additional military funds will be used to add 28,000 troops to forces conducting the 40-month old war. The additions will bring to 375,000 soldiers the French ground force in Algeria, where another 125,000 airmen and sailors are stationed.

Gaillard asked the deputies to think beyond the simple question of military funds. He noted parliamentary uneasiness and said this uneasiness might lead to a new governmental crisis by disrupting his shaky coalition.

An Inspiring Feature Starts Next Week In The Times

The POWER of FAITH

by HOWARD BRODIE

HOWARD BRODIE, creator of THE POWER OF FAITH, is well known to millions for his on-the-spot sketches during World War II and the Korean conflict. His work has appeared many times in national magazines.

Some of the most moving human acts of faith in our time are yours to see in THE POWER OF FAITH which will appear each week in this newspaper.

The ordeals and triumphs of Helen Keller, the American prisoner of war in Korea, and of Father Damien of Molokai are among the magnificent illustrations by Howard Brodie. Great men of the past who were influenced by their faith—such as Michelangelo, Bach and others also will be portrayed dramatically in the weeks to come.

You will want to save these drawings and brief messages to paste in your scrapbook to read and re-read in later years. There will be a new one each week starting—

ASPERS COUPLE CLAIMS FRAUD

Robert P. and Lucille J. Aspers, Aspers R. 1, allege fraud in their answer filed with the county prothonotary's office in the action in assumpsit brought against them by U. S. Buyers Report Inc., Chicago.

The Chicago concern sued the Aspers for $575 which it said was due it for an advertisement appearing in the National Buyer's Guide listing the Aspers' Grocery and Feed Mill at Aspers R. 1 for sale.

In the answer filed today for the Aspers by their attorney, Daniel E. Teeter, they deny signing any agreement to take a one-fourth page display advertisement in the Chicago publication.

They admit that a "J. Kelly," who is listed by the Chicago company as their agent who secured the Aspers' names to the contract, visited them on the date alleged, November 23, 1955.

But they claim Kelly represented himself as being from National Business and Property Exchange Inc., and said he told them they were signing an agreement to permit the National Business and Property Exchange to sell their property, "solely on the understanding that there be no obligation if no sale resulted."

They held that the plaintiff did not include in the exhibits of the case a part of the agreement of which Kelly wrote a section that there would be no pay if no sale and held "the defendants believe and allege the agent obtained the signatures by deliberate and calculated fraud, false representation and deceit."

Today's Talk

OUR MOODS

It is not strange that we are so subject to moods. We are creatures of moods. People often misjudge us because of them, too, but if our moods are healthy ones, we need have no fear of their expression. Our moods often light up a dark corner of our personality. Our moods often furnish a key to our character, or to that of a friend.

We should not judge a person too quickly because of his or her moods. They pass so quickly. But they do, also, give direction to our thoughts, stimulating them. A moody person is not always an uninteresting one. Usually just the opposite. In moving about we come in contact with people of many moods. We can learn from them all.
Our moods are like guide-posts.
They keep giving direction to our plans, our dreams and our desires.

Our great care should be to make our moods serve us, creating happiness and health within us. A happy mood habit can bless us throughout a long life of interests. Healthy babies always seem to me to be in a continuous happy mood!

We should use care, in our handling of moods, not to allow them to hinder us. It has easily been done.
Our moods should become our constructive aids. They have set stars.
How we are inspired by the talk of a friend whose mind is saturated with ideas and good purposes and whose interests are worldwide! We can divide our moods. We can have our book moods, our friend moods, our solitary moods, and our self-examining moods.

THE BACHELOR TALKS

Time was I thought I loved a girl.
I think her name was Carrie.
Oh, she was fair to look upon
And one I hoped to marry.
But she invited me to tea
And I went home dejected,
For every time her father spoke
This maiden him corrected.

I found another lassie fair,
Her cheeks were cherry red,
Until she asked me up to tea
This maid I hoped to wed;
But at the table vanished love.
My heart was sore afflicted,
For everything her mother said
That maiden contradicted.

I might have been a married man
And known a husband's cares;
For often Cupid came to me
And caught me unawares.
And who can tell but what I might,
By now have children three,
Had not the girls I thought I loved
Invited me to tea.

Sees Son-in-law

First In Lineup

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Mrs. Lucretia Richardson met her son-in-law for the first time yesterday—in a police lineup.

She identified Duane J. Williams
22, as the man who held up a grocery store in suburban Sunnyside Tuesday while she was shopping there.

"Are you sure?" asked Sheriff's Sgt. Barney Blaine. She nodded.
Blaine told her Williams was her son-in-law and that he married her daughter two weeks ago.

"My God," she cried, "now I know where LaVon is!"
before.

Blaine said later that Mrs. Richardson had never met Williams
"Apparently," he added, "Williams used to sit out in the car when he came to call for LaVon."
Blaine said Williams, who also was identified by others as the gunman in several other holdups, signed a statement admitting the grocery stickup. No charges have been filed.

The daughter? She was booked on a bogus check charge.

Here Lies The Body Of
Hance Hamilton
Who Departed This
Life The 2d Of Feb.
1772 Aged 51 Years

When Colonel Hamilton's body was removed to the Evergreen Cemetery at Gettysburg, the original marker was included in the transfer. It stood for many years, propped against a tree, near the head of the grave. With time the inscription was entirely obliterated and the stone itself cracked and broken. Finally a new marker was placed at the grave and the old one removed.
It present whereabouts is not known.

Papers Were Preserved
Many of Hance Hamilton's papers, both personal and military, were placed in the hands of Robert Mc-Pherson, the chief executor of his will. It is fortunate indeed that Colonel McPherson preserved these papers for among them are records pertaining to the French and Indian Wars, not published in the Second and Fifth Series of the Pennsylvania Archives.

Several of these manuscripts are pay rolls and they list the men in Colonel Hamilton's company at a given time and place. Because of their historical value they are given in full in this column.

pany from the 1st of June to Huet and John Bee."

At the bottom of this list is the notation, "James Stewart soldier no more."

After a careful study of the rolls it would seem that James Stewart was the only skilled penman in the company. Four names are written in German: Cramer, Zinn, Fromm, and Poinis von.
According to an old tradition, the last named claimed to be of aristocratic birth.

York County Driver
In March and April, 1756, Matthew McClure received to Robert McPherson three times for money due him "for service done in the expedition" against Kittanning, once in the presence of Thomas

Boyd, and again in that of Thomas Reynolds.

Thomas Moor, "a driver of York County," in August, 1758, received from Matthew Dill, "wagon-master of York County," twenty shillings.
Moor's team entered "His Majesty's service" June 25, 1758, and was discharged August 25, 1758, "his Hall team and wagon being unfit for service two days being allowed to go home." An order to this effect was signed by Matthew Dill, "Wagon-Master."

This concluded our notes on Colonel Hance Hamilton and his rangers.

During the French and Indian Wars, in what is now Adams County four blockhouses, or stockades, were erected. They were located as follows: The first near Arendville, in the Buchanan Valley; the second on the lands of Hugh Wendell on Marsh Creek; the third on the Mays farm, located on the road between Bonneauville and Two Taverns; and the fourth near Duttersa's Station on the Low Dutch Road.

The blockhouse near Arendville proved to be a valuable defense to the early settlers in what is now Buchanan Valley. Had the family of Mary Jamison headed the warning that was given and taken refuge there, as did the majority of their neighbors, a tragedy might have been avoided.
The notes on the French and Indian Wars will be continued next week.

LAUGHTER IS THE SHIELD
By HARRY HERSHFIELD
Humanitarian And Humorist

To get a complete portrait of a people you must sooner or later examine their laughter.

Consider the history of the Jews these past 20 centuries and it is astonishing that he can laugh at all. The sorrow always wait on him, but through the centuries he has created a laughter of his own to dispel them.

In his laughter
he is the sure hope that he will survive the cruelties of this world and the fierce faith of resurrection in the next.

Now, what has faith to do with laughter?
Ask anyone who has felt the oppressor's lash, and it mak-difference whether he is Jew, at, Catholic, or Jew, he must per:
"Laughter is a weapon which leaves the oppressor helpless, and it is a shield of the spirit which defeats him."

Like The Lion
All the bullies of history are like the lion of the ancient fable; the lion swaggered through the jungle, parading his strength, and roared at the rabbit:

"Who is the strongest and most ferocious animal in the world?"
"You of course," the rabbit trembled, and scurried away.
The lion approached in turn the zebra, the buffalo, and the tiger with the same question. And all three quickly agreed that the lion was, indeed, king of all the beasts.

But when the lion roared at the elephant: "Who is king of all the beasts?" he was picked up quickly by the elephant's trunk, battered against a tree, and dropped, contemptuously, to the ground.
Whereupon the lion whined:

"Just because you don't know the answer, you don't have to lose your temper."

Unconquerable Spirit
At their doom, history's tyrants learn too late that the bodies of free men may be overcome, but their spirit is unconquerable.

The oppressed have always borne their burden with laughter whether the burden is Pharaoh, Caesar, Hitler, or Stalin. Laughter is his shield, but faith is rock.
Without the faith of Abraham,
Jacob and Moses, he could not have survived his tribulations.
But faith, sometimes frail in the ring Francis Lederer begins a three-day engagement Monday at the Hershey Community Theater. In this Pulitzer Prize winning drama the Community Theater is bringing to its patrons one of the most important plays of recent years. Critics say it is a play for all the family, with a special appeal to teen-agers.

Featured players in "The Diary of Anne Frank" are Maria Palmer, Gilbert Green, Nan McFarland, Abigail Kellogg, Lou Gilbert and Hulet.

The curtain for the three evening performances will be at 8:30 o'clock.
The Wednesday matinee will begin

TURK'S BRIDE IS ARRESTED

BOSTON (AP)—A visiting professor from Istanbul, Turkey, today blamed a lack of English and supermarket shopping for his latest misfortune—the jailing of his bride for four months.

"It's all a mistake," said Yorgi Dimitriyadi, a visiting faculty member at Harvard after posting $500 bail for his wife, Ferhan, 35, who is charged with larceny.

Mrs. Dimitriyadi left her Cambridge home Thursday noon on her first solo shopping trip. When she failed to return, Dimitriyadi reported her missing.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Dimitriyadi had been arrested on a charge of larceny from a store in downtown Boston. She couldn't speak English. The arresting officers couldn't speak Turkish. She was held overnight.

Then the police communications system showed her missing. The professor was notified and he hurried to the jail to post a $500 bond for her release.

Dimitriyadi said he had always accompanied his wife on shopping trips, mostly to supermarkets.

"When we do our shopping at the supermarket we bring all the goods to the cashier," Dimitriyadi said. "But Ferhan was not familiar with shopping in department stores."

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—A man identified as a key figure in the tri-state seven million dollar narcotics ring has changed his plea from innocent to guilty.

Nicholas Serrian, 43, owner of the Tumble Inn at Buena, near Vineland, entered the surprise plea yesterday before Federal Judge
Thomas H. Madden.

In Carmen Basilio's first Madison Square Garden appearance he broke his hand in 1950 against Vic Cardell.

face of man's inhumanity to man, must often be tempered with humor, as iron with carbon, to produce a tougher, more resistant substance.

There was a rabbi known for his long daily prayers, and his abiding conviction that they would always be answered. After one arduous prayer, his wife asked:
"And what did you pray for today?"

Like Good Medicine
"That the rich should give greater alms to the poor," he said.
"Do you think God heard your prayer?" she asked.

And the rabbi replied: "I'm sure he heard at least half of it, because the poor have agreed to accept."

Perhaps the unique ingredient of an enduring faith is a man's capacity to laugh at himself for a "merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

This story was very likely told when chariots were the only railroads. But it is now being relayed to spice the bitter struggle of a people to create a nation in that troubled corner of the world called Israel. A Hebrew stretched himself across the railroad tracks with a loaf of bread under his arm.
A policeman came running up quickly and demanded:

"What do you think you're doing?"

A Good Reason
"Waiting for the train to run over me," the man said. "I do not wish to live any longer."
"But why the loaf of bread?"
the puzzled policeman asked.

"The way the trains run here," the man answered tartly, "you could starve to death waiting for one."

In its logic, and there is such a thing as comic logic, such self-depreciation is a sure sign of tolerance. It is a spur to creative power and can only enrich the heritage of others. His laughter, and his ability to laugh at himself, is in unwritten Hebrew folklore and is his sacred literature as well. And that is why it has a universal appeal to all faiths.

To All Men
In their travail, Jews have often asked: "Why has the good Lord selected such a little people for such large calamities?" But each time it is asked, they quickly reply with this story which belongs to all men:

A poor man had to carry an unbearable load on his back, and one day when he could carry it no farther, he cried out in despair:
"Oh death, come and free me!"
In a flash the angel of death was at his side inquiring politely:

Let's Look At The Record

By Jim Dan Hill, Ph.D.

NEGLECTED MEN

Rocket Craze Warps Defense
Planning; Manpower Needs
Being Sadly Neglected

THE NATIONAL GUARD, Air and Army, is being sold down the river of false economy.

This volunteer force that gives the most for the smallest fraction of each defense dollar is being sacrificed by meat axe technique in Sputnik inspired, false emphasis, budget trimming.

America has become dangerously rocket happy. Missiles have become more important than men.

The desk fighter's popular, science fiction dream of push button, intercontinental wars has captured so many imaginations that America is about to accept the dangerous dictum that for combat, men have become obsolete.

KHRUSHCHEV nurtured this theory for us in one of his well planned speeches early in the brief period that Sputnik successes were giving him a world wide forum.

If Nikita Khrushchev actually believes that malarky, why is Russia still training pilots?

Why are Russian crews being drafted into an ever expanding Soviet submarine force?

Why does Russia, in the face of world clamor for arms reduction, cling tenaciously to the largest army in the world?

The Soviets have 175 divisions, on full active duty at all times!
Billions are being spent on their modernization.

Khrushchev, distrustful of Field Marshal Voroshilov, degraded him to Siberian obscurity for his resistance to Communist party surveillance within this powerful force.

Khrushchev and his henchmen are insistent that this great mass of military manpower will unquestioningly fight foreign wars for the expansion of Moscow's own brand of aggressive Marxism.

Thus, when Khrushchev says men have become obsolete, his policies give his words the lie.

Biglerville Knocked From PIAA Basketball Playoffs By Camp Hill Cagers 67-43

Biglerville High School was eliminated from further Class B, District 3 PIAA play when it suffered a 67-43 drubbing at the hands of Camp Hill Friday evening on the Chambersburg High School floor.

Coach Bernie Thrush's Cannons offered stiff opposition to the Lions in the early minutes of the game but started to fade when "Chip" Lundy, 6-5 Camp Hill star, began to hit. Lundy connected for a total of 26 points.

Jim Kuhn of the Cannons opened the scoring with a set shot and came back with a drive-in after Lundy had hit on a jump toss. Don Hoke and Lundy retaliated with Lion goals before Harry Hartzel looped a foul and Dick Byers a push shot as Biglerville went in from again 7-6.

Cannons Held Last Lead

Sieve Engel looped a jump toss and the Cannons had their last lead at 9-8 on a push by Harry Hartzel.

A pair of goals by Lundy, another by "Butch" Wright and still another by Lundy put Camp Hill in front 16-9 at the end of the period. Early in the second period Harry Hartzel's five points enabled the upper courtians to slash the Camp Hill lead to four point at 20-16, but Lundy, Joe Dintamin and Engel rallied the Lion forces for a 29-19 lead at intermission.

Camp Hill led the game by out-scoring the Cannons 17-7 in the third quarter. During the period the only Biglerville goals were by Dick Hartzel and Kuhn while Glenn Bricker added two fouls and Harry Hartzel one. Going into the last frame Camp Hill held a commanding 46-26 advantage.

Hartzel, Kuhn Lead Attack

Harry Hartzel pumped in 16 points and Kuhn 14 to spark the Biglerville offense. Lundy, Engel and Dintamin provided the bulk of the scoring for the winners.

The defeat leaves Biglerville with an overall 14-8 record for the season. Lampeter-Strasburg meets Kutztown tonight in a Class B game at Lebanon and the winner opposes Camp Hill next Tuesday.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—

An electric commuter train smashed into three others halted by faulty signals 35 miles north of Rio de Janeiro last night. About 60 persons were reported killed and 90 injured.

Disaster crews working in a heavy rain had removed 36 bodies by morning. The impact of the collision was so great that clothing was torn from many of the passengers.

FANS WILL EYE WEST CLUBS IN TODAY'S GAMES

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

In the fourth inning of the seventh game of the 1956 World Series, Roy Campanella doubled off Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne and scored moments later on a single. It turned out to be the winning run as the Brooklyn Dodgers sewed up their first world championship.

Times have changed. The Dodgers have moved to Los Angeles. Campanella lies half-paralyzed in a Glen Cove, N.Y. hospital and Byrne has retired.

But although the names may not be the same in many cases, the "game's the same." It's still big league baseball and that's all that will matter when the scores of the exhibition openers come trickling in today from Florida and Arizona.

Eye Western Clubs

Much of the interest will center on the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. The Dodgers play the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game in Miami while the Giants meet the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix, Ariz.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs meet the Baltimore Orioles at Scottsdale, Ariz.; Cincinnati faces the Chicago White Sox at Tampa, Fla.; the world champion Milwaukee Braves take on Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Pittsburgh and Boston clash at Sarasota, Fla.; the Yankees and St. Louis get together at St. Petersburg, Fla. and Washington and Kansas City hook up at West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Giants-Indians game will also mark the American League managerial debut of Bobby Bragan.

Delay Score Start

Herb Score's scheduled first game appearance for Cleveland since his untimely eye injury last May was postponed. The young lefthander suffered a sprained right ankle running around a Tucson YMCA gym Friday and will be sidelined for a few days.

The latest hospital bulletin on Campanella indicated that the burly catcher is showing general improvement and his paralysis is slowly disappearing. Roy suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28.

Byrne, who had said several times he was considering retirement from baseball, made it official yesterday. He has joined the staff of an oil company in Sanford, N.C.

PISTONS CAN WIN 2ND PLACE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Detroit Pistons can wrap up second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. today by beating the Celtics in Boston in a nationally-televised game (NBC).

The Detroit-Cincinnati struggle for the runner-up spot and the Philadelphia-New York competition for third place in the Eastern Division are the only positions not yet decided.

A victory for Detroit over Boston would give the Pistons a record of 34 season triumphs. Cincinnati has won 30 and has only three games left to play.

Philadelphia can clinch the third and last playoff spot by beating the Knickerbockers in New York tomorrow afternoon. The Knicks have their backs against the wall. They must win all three of their games while the Warriors drop all three they have remaining to force a deadlock and a one-game playoff for the position.

In last night's only game, the St. Louis Hawks, champion of the Western Division, edged the Syracuse Nationals 102-100. Bob Pettit had 39 points for the Hawks, who had to save off a late Nat's rally.

Future Stars Bosox To Play Aspromonte

By JACK STEVENSON

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast League is sending up a crop of hopefuls to the major leagues this spring.

Ken Aspromonte, 26, who led the league in batting with .334 in 143 games for the champion San Francisco Seals, is tabbed as the new second baseman for the Boston Red Sox. A 170-pounder, his 171 hits included 35 doubles, 4 triples and 7 homers.

Strikeout king Jim (Mudcat) Grant, 22, San Diego right hander, gets a chance with the Cleveland Indians. Grant fanned 178 batters and was 18-7 with a 2.32 earned run record.

Kiely Returns

Boston takes a group of former Seals to their Sarasota, Fla., camp, including Leo Kiely, 27, who is back for another try. As a relief man southpaw Kiely won 21 games, tops in the PCL.

Also moving up to the Bosox are catcher Haywood Sullivan, outfielder Marty Keough and pitchers Bob Smith and Tommy Hurd. Center fielder Albie Pearson, a 297 hitter, should stick with Washington. He was one of the most colorful players in the league. A 22-year-old he is only 5-foot-6 and 145 pounds. Still he led the league in triples with 11. Recently the Bosox traded him to the Senators.

Home run champ Steve Binko of Los Angeles, with 56 homers, goes up for another try, this time with Cincinnati.

Green Joins Orioles

Vancouver star, swift Lenny Green, who hit .311, could help the Baltimore Orioles. Green, 24, has had only two seasons in pro ball. Cincinnati gets Seattle pitcher Charley Rabe, who started 31 games. The left hander, 25, had a 16-10 mark for 238 innings.

Hollywood's Bennie Daniels walked 121 but had a 17-8 mark and the 25-year-old right hander is going to Fort Myers with Pittsburgh.

Baltimore has recalled from Vancouver pitchers Don Ferrarese and Charlie Beamon. The latter, 22, right-handed, had a 12-10 record. Ferrarese, 28, was 11-5.

Cleveland has recalled from San Diego pitcher Hank Aguirre (6-13).

BULLETS OPEN SPRING GRID DRILLS FRIDAY

Spring football practice at Gettysburg College got underway Friday afternoon when approximately 50 candidates reported to Coach Eugene Haas.

Under NCAA rules, 20 days of spring practice are allowed during a 30-day period. The Bullets plan to conclude their workouts just prior to the beginning of the Easter vacation.

Among the lettermen reporting were Marty Hoffman, John Yohn, Jules Prevost and Carl Schoenborn, linemen, and Dick Davidock, Jim Flood and Dick Stravolo, backs. "Chet" Knight, an end, will report later and additional candidates are expected. Others who will be available next fall are planning to participate in spring sports.

Last year's Bullet team turned in a 7-1-1 record.

The K of C folks also point out that this possibly could be Ron's last race in New York, since he is due to be graduated from Villanova this semester, and won't return to the United States unless he decides to take some post-graduate work.

Lined up against him are the usual crowd—George ing of the New York Athletic Club, Jim Beatty of the Army, Burr Grim of Maryland and George Coleman of Chicago.

Delany didn't run the mile last week in the ICA meet. Instead, he helped Villanova win the team championship by taking both the 1,000 and 2-mile. He now has won 26 straight indoor races, including 21 at the mile.

Barons, Bears Seek To Break Deadlock

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cleveland Barons and the Hershey Bears will be out to break their deadlock for first place in the American Hockey League tonight. The Barons will be at Springfield while the Bears entertain Providence.

Cleveland blew an excellent opportunity to move into sole possession of the lead last night. The Barons lost to the Rochester Americans, 5-2.

Stan Smrke scored the winning goal for the Amers at 7:03 of the second period.

In the only other game, Providence trounced the Buffalo Bisons 6-1.

FORMER HERO HAS TROUBLE FINDING FORM

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Back in 1954 a hero of the World Championship Giants was Jim (Dusty) Rhodes, an uninhibited fellow who came through with hits when they were most needed.

Today Dusty is striving to make the move with the club from New York to San Francisco, moving his job is in jeopardy. Rhodes is dead serious in practice sessions.

In his great year, Dusty drove in 50 runs with 58 hits, hammered 15 homers in 164 times at bat and finished with a .341 average.

Against Cleveland in the World Series, he won the first game with a pinch hit home run and the next day rapped a single that clinched another victory. The third day he again delivered as a pinch hitter.

The next season Rhodes hit .305. He wasn't noted for his fielding but his hitting made up for it.

Started To Slip

Then Dusty began to slip with averages of .217 in 1956 and a measly .205 last season.

Asked what the plans were for Rhodes, Manager Bill Rigney replied: "That's up to Dusty. Last season he didn't give himself a chance. He'd swing at a high ball and then for a second strike swing at one just a bit farther up. Maybe for a third one he'd go way down. He's got to start waiting and swinging at strikes."

Dusty, now 31, says his 1957 year was "terrible in all departments. I just couldn't do anything right."

When special batting coach Lefty O'Doul arrived in camp, Dusty was right with the first group seeking advice.

"He was just getting himself twisted up and not swinging with any smoothness at all," O'Doul said. "And he was hitching back for his swing too late."

Rhodes tried following Lefty's advice during batting practice and declared, "I think you found a couple of things I was doing wrong."

But the hero of the 1954 title team still hasn't won a place on this year's squad.

Biglerville Knocked From PIAA Basketball Playoffs By Camp Hill Cagers 67-43

Biglerville High School was eliminated from further Class B, District 3 PIAA play when it suffered a 67-43 drubbing at the hands of Camp Hill Friday evening on the Chambersburg High School floor.

Camp Hill's Threshers offered stiff opposition to the Lions in the early minutes of the game but started to fade when "Chip" Lundy, 6-5 Camp Hill star, began to hit. Lundy connected for a total of 26 points.

Jim Kuhn of the Camp Hill team, who scored with a set shot and came back with a drive-in after Lundy had hit on a jump toss. Don Hoke and Lundy retaliated with Lion goals before Harry Hartzel looped a foul and Dick Byers a push shot as Biglerville went in from again 7-6.

Canners Hold Last Lead
Steve Engel looped a jump toss and the Canners had their last lead at 9-8 on a push by Harry Hartzel.

A pair of goals by Lundy, another by "Butch" Wright and still another by Lundy put Camp Hill in front 16-9 at the end of the period.

Early in the second period Harry Hartzel's five points enabled the upper courtians to slash the Camp Hill lead to four point at 20-16, but Lundy, Joe Dintamin and Engel rallied the Lion forces for a 29-19 lead at intermission.

Camp Hill led the game by out-scoring the Canners 17-7 in the third quarter. During the period the only Biglerville goals were by Dick Hartzel and Kuhn while Glenn Bricker added two fouls and Harry Hartzel one. Going into the last frame Camp Hill held a commanding 46-26 advantage.

Hartzel, Kuhn Lead Attack
Harry Hartzel pumped in 16 points and Kuhn 14 to spark the Biglerville offense. Lundy, Engel and Dintamin provided the bulk of the scoring for the winners.

The defeat leaves Biglerville with an overall 14-8 record for the season. Lampeter-Strasburg meets Kutztown tonight in a Class B game at Lebanon and the winner opposes Camp Hill next Tuesday.

FANS WILL EYE WEST CLUBS IN TODAY'S GAMES

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

In the fourth inning of the seventh game of the 1956 World Series, Roy Campanella doubled off Yankee pitcher Tommy Byrne and scored moments later on a single. It turned out to be the winning run as the Brooklyn Dodgers sewed up their first world championship.

Times have changed. The Dodgers have moved to Los Angeles. Campanella lies half-paralyzed in a Glen Cove, N.Y. hospital and Byrne has retired.

But although the names may not be the same in many cases, the "game's the same." It's still big league baseball and that's all that will matter when the scores of the exhibition openers come trickling in today from Florida and Arizona.

Eye Western Clubs
Much of the interest will center on the Los Angeles and San Francisco teams. The Dodgers play the Philadelphia Phillies in a night game in Miami while the Giants meet the Cleveland Indians in Phoenix, Ariz.

In other games, the Chicago Cubs meet the Baltimore Orioles at Scottsdale, Ariz.; Cincinnati faces the Chicago White Sox at Tampa, Fla.; the world champion Milwaukee Braves take on Detroit at Lakeland, Fla.; Pittsburgh and Boston clash at Sarasota, Fla.; the Yankees and St. Louis get together at St. Petersburg, Fla. and Washington and Kansas City hook up at West Palm Beach, Fla.

The Giants-Indians game will also mark the American League managerial debut of Bobby Bragan.

Delay Score Start
Herb Score's scheduled first game appearance for Cleveland since his untimely eye injury last May was postponed. The young left-hander suffered a sprained right ankle running around a Tucson YMCA gym Friday and will be sidelined for a few days.

The latest hospital bulletin on Campanella indicated that the bulky catcher is showing general improvement and his paralysis is slowly disappearing. Roy suffered a broken neck in an automobile accident Jan. 28.

Byrne, who had said several times he was considering retirement from baseball, made it official yesterday. He has joined the staff of an oil company in Sanford, N.C.

PISTONS CAN WIN 2ND PLACE
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Detroit Pistons can wrap up second place in the Western Division of the National Basketball Assn. today by beating the Celtics in Boston in a nationally-televized game (NBC).

The Detroit-Cincinnati struggle for the runnerup spot and the Philadelphia - New York competition for third place in the Eastern Division are the only positions not yet decided.

A victory for Detroit over Boston would give the Pistons a record of 34 season triumphs. Cincinnati has won 30 and has only three games left to play.

Philadelphia can clinch the third and last playoff spot by beating the Knickerbockers in New York tomorrow afternoon. The Knicks have their backs against the wall. They must win all three of their games while the Warriors drop all three they have remaining to force a deadlock and a one-game playoff for the position.

In last night's only game, St. Louis Hawks, champion of the Western Division, edged the Syracuse Nationals 102-100. Bob Pettit had 39 points for the Hawks, who had to stave off a late Nats' rally.

Future Stars Bosox To Play Aspromonte

By JACK STEVENSON
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The Pacific Coast League is sending up a crop of hopefuls to the major leagues this spring.

Ken Aspromonte, 26, who led the league in batting with .334 in 143 games for the champion San Francisco Seals, is tabbed as the new second baseman for the Boston Red Sox. A 170-pounder, his 171 hits included 35 doubles, 4 triples and 7 homers.

Strikeout king Jim (Mudcat) Grant, 22, San Diego right hander, gets a chance with the Cleveland Indians. Grant fanned 178 batters and was 18-7 with a 2.32 earned run record.

Kiely Returns
Boston takes a group of former Seals to their Sarasota, Fla., camp, including Leo Kiely, 27, who is back for another try. As a relief man southpaw Kiely won 21 games, tops in the PCL.

Also moving up to the Bosox are catcher Haywood Sullivan, outfielder Marty Keough and pitchers Bob Smith and Tommy Hurd. Center fielder Albie Pearson, a 297 hitter, should stick with Washington. He was one of the most colorful players in the league. A 22-year-old he is only 5-foot-6 and 145 pounds. Still he led the league in triples with 11. Recently the Bosox traded him to the Senators.

Home run champ Steve Bilko of Los Angeles, with 56 homers, goes up for another try, this time with Cincinnati.

Green Joins Orioles
Vancouver star, swift Lenny Green, who hit .311, could help the Baltimore Orioles. Green, 24, has had only two seasons in pro ball.

Cincinnati gets Seattle pitcher Charley Rabe, who started 31 games. The left hander, 25, has a 16-10 mark for 238 innings.

Hollywood's Bennie Daniels walked 121 but had a 17-8 mark and the 25-year-old right hander is going to Port Myers with Pittsburgh.

Baltimore has recalled from Vancouver pitchers Don Ferrarese and Charlie Beamon. The latter, 22, right-handed, had a 12-10 record. Ferrarese, 28, was 11-5.

Cleveland has recalled from San Diego pitcher Hank Aguirre (6-13).

RON RUNS BEST WHEN Foe STEPS ON COAT TAILS

By ED CORRIGAN

NEW YORK (AP)—Judge Thomas E. Rohan, who is running the Knights of Columbus games in Madison Square Garden tonight, was hard-pressed to find an adequate description for Ron Delany, Villanova's wonder miler.

Finally he hit it in an old Irish verse:

"My name it did spread through the nation,
"Polks flock for to gaze upon me,
"And they cry out with no hesitation,
"You're a fighting man, Ron.
"I race with the Sullivan faction."

"I beat all the Murphys afloat,
"If you're looking for row or for ruction.
"Just step on the tail of me coat."

Best When Pressed
That, in the opinion of Judge Rohan, an Irishman he is, why Delany runs against his opposition and not the clock. Ron only gives them the works when they step on the tail of his coat, as it were.

Nevertheless, the K of C sponsors are wistfully wishing Ron will decide to junk his time-honored system and try to break Gunnar Nielsen's world indoor record of 4:03.6. He came within a tenth of a second of it in his last mile two weeks ago.

The K of C folks also point out that this possibly could be Ron's last race in New York, since he is due to be graduated from Villanova this semester, and won't return to the United States unless he decides to take some post-graduate work.

Lined up against him are the usual crowd—George Ing of the New York Athletic Club, Jim Beatty of the Army, Burr Grim of Maryland and George Coleman of Chicago.

Today's Talk

OUR MOODS

It is not strange that we are so subject to moods. We are creatures of moods. People often misjudge us because of them, too, but if our moods are healthy ones, we need have no fear of their expression. Our moods often light up a dark corner of our personality. Our moods often furnish a key to our character, or to that of a friend.

We should not judge a person too quickly because of his or her moods. They pass so quickly. But they do, also, give direction to our thoughts, stimulating them. A moody person is not always an uninteresting one. Usually just the opposite. In moving about we come in contact with people of many moods. We can learn from them all. Our moods are like guide-posts. They keep giving direction to our plans, our dreams and our decisions.

Our great care should be to make our moods serve us, creating happiness and health within us. A happy mood habit can bless us throughout a long life of interests. Healthy babies always seem to me to be in a continuous happy mood!

We should use care, in our handling of moods, not to allow them to handle us! It has easily been done. Our moods should become our constructive aids. They have set stars. How we are inspired by the talk of a friend whose mind is saturated with ideas and good purposes and whose interests are worldwide! We can divide our moods. We can have our book moods, our friend moods, our solitary moods, and our self-examining moods.

THE BACHELOR TALKS

Time was I thought I loved a girl,
I think her name was Carrie.
Oh, she was fair to look upon
And one I hoped to marry.
But she invited me to tea
And I went home dejected,
For every time her father spoke
This maiden him corrected.

I found another lassie fair,
Her cheeks were cherry red.
Until she asked me up to tea
This maid I hoped to wed;
But at the table vanished love,
My heart was sore afflicted,
For everything her mother said
That maiden contradicted.

I might have been a married man
And known a husband's cares;
For often Cupid came to me
And caught me unawares.
And who can tell but what I might,
By now have children three,
Had not the girls I thought I loved
Invited me to tea.

County History

Frontier Rangers

By B. F. M. MacPherson

The notes on the Hance Hamilton family are continued today with some final "odds and ends" pertaining to the settlement of his estate and several manuscripts having to do with his military service on the frontier.

Hance Hamilton wrote his will January 27, 1772, and it was entered to probate March 11, 1772. The executors were his brother John Hamilton, Robert McPherson, Esq., and Samuel Edie; witnesses, James McClure, Robert Black, and Hugh Gallagher.

In his will Colonel Hamilton mentions his children and their legacies as follows:—

1. Son — Thomas Hamilton — Twenty pounds and "my silver mounted pistols."
2. Daughter — Sarah Hamilton intermarried with Alexander McLean. Forty pounds.
3. Daughter — Mary Hamilton intermarried with Hugh McKean. Forty pounds.
4. Son — Hance Hamilton — Five pounds and "my silver pistol, and silver medal."

Other Sons

5. Son — Gualan Hamilton — Two hundred pounds, "my saddle and bridle and silver snuff box."
6. Son — George Hamilton — One hundred and thirty pounds and "my long gun."
7. Son — John Hamilton — One hundred and fifty pounds and "my black stallion."
8. Son — William Hamilton — Three hundred pounds.
9. Son — James Hamilton — Three hundred pounds.
10. "To Mary (McKean), the wife of my son Thomas Hamilton, my roan mare."

Of Hance Hamilton's seven sons, one, Hance Hamilton II, was graduated from the University of Pennsylvania in 1768.

Included with the papers pertaining to Hance Hamilton's will on file at the York County Court-house is a receipt from John McClure, one of the witnesses to the will, attesting that he received ten shillings, six pence "for expenses laid out in attending at York to prove the will." Also a receipt from Sarah Black, stating that she received three pounds, two shillings and six pence for "two gallons of liquor and three gallons of rum, expended at the funeral of Hance Hamilton."

Black Slate Stone

The first grave of Hance Hamilton in the Upper Marsh Creek Presbyterian Graveyard (Black's) was marked with a black slate stone, with the following inscription cut thereon:—

Here Lies The Body Of
Hance Hamilton
Who Departed This
Life The 2d Of Feb.
1772 Aged 51 Years

When Colonel Hamilton's body was removed to the Evergreen Cemetery at Gettysburg, the original marker was included in the transfer. It stood for many years, propped against a tree, near the head of the grave. With time the inscription was entirely obliterated and the stone itself cracked and broken. Finally a new marker was placed at the grave and the old one removed. It present whereabouts is not known.

Papers Were Preserved

Many of Hance Hamilton's papers, both personal and military, were placed in the hands of Robert McPherson, the chief executor of his will. It is fortunate indeed that Colonel McPherson preserved these papers for among them are records pertaining to the French and Indian Wars, not published in the Second and Fifth Series of the Pennsylvania Archives.

Several of these manuscripts are pay rolls and they list the men in Colonel Hamilton's company at a given time and place. Because of their historical value they are given in full in this column.

No. 1 "A Receipt for the Mews Pay in Lt. Col. Hamilton's Company from the 1st of June to August the 1st (1758)."

"We the Subscribers Acknowledge we have received our pay and arrears of Pay from the 1st day of June to the 1st day of August 1758 in full."

Payment In Cash

No. 11 "An Account of Cash Paid and to Whom at Fort Ligonier, Mar. the 30th and 31st (1758) "Samuel Robinson (sergeant), David Ramsey, Philip Cramer, Dr. Martin, Thos McClure, John Mitchell, Will Chensley, Francis McBride, Henry Atkinson, Robert Farrell, Patrick Campbell, Archd McComb, John McCulloagh, James Wilson, (second column) James Wilson, John McCleery, Robert Ramsey, Charles O'Neal, John Galteth, Lamberd Sparks, John McVay, Edward Fowler, James

Elliot, Will Baker, Thos Hendey, Arter Noble, Samuel Ferguson, Charles Sips, Casper Zinn, Martin Zigler, Abram Dison, Samuel Shannon, William Parker, George Swagerl, Michel Miar, Joseph Ridebough, William Clark, Hugh Morlion, Martin From, Thos Pendel, Lenard Nixt, Thos Sankey, James Stewart, James Robinson, Charles Recker, Caspar Franer, John Power, James Finley, James Huet and John Bee."

At the bottom of this list is the notation, "James Stewart soldier no more."

After a careful study of the rolls it would seem that James Stewart was the only skilled penman in the company. Four names are written in German: Cramer, Zinn, Fromm, and Fomis von. According to an old tradition, the last named claimed to be of aristocratic birth.

York County Driver

In March and April, 1756, Matthew McClure received to Robert McPherson three times for money due him "for service done in the expedition" against Kittanning, once in the presence of Thomas Boyd, and again in that of Thomas Reynolds.

Thomas Moor, "a driver of York County," in August, 1756, received from Matthew Dill, "wagon-master of York County," twenty shillings. Moor's team entered "His Majesty's service" June 25, 1758, and was discharged August 25, 1758, "his Hall team and waggon being unfit for service two days being allowed to go home." An order to this effect was signed by Matthew Dill, "Waggon-Master."

This concluded our notes on Colonel Hance Hamilton and his rangers.

During the French and Indian Wars, in what is now Adams County four blockhouses, or stockades, were erected. They were located as follows: The first near Arendtsville, in the Buchanan Valley; the second on the lands of Hugh Denwidde on Marsh Creek; the third on the Mays farm, located on the road between Bonneauville and Two Taverns; and the fourth near Duttersa's Station on the Low Dutch Road.

The blockhouse near Arendtsville proved to be a valuable defense to the early settlers in what is now Buchanan Valley. Had the family of Mary Jamison heeded the warning that was given and taken refuge there, as did the majority of their neighbors, a tragedy might have been avoided.

The notes on the French and Indian Wars will be continued next week.

LAUGHTER IS THE SHIELD

By HARRY HERSHFIELD
Humanitarian And Humorist

To get a complete portrait of a people you must sooner or later examine their laughter.

Consider the history of the Jews these past 20 centuries and it is astonishing that he can laugh at all. The sorrows always wait on him, but through the centuries he has created a laughter of his own to dispel them.

In his laughter is the sure hope that he will survive the cruelties of this world and the fierce faith of resurrection in the next.

Now, what has faith to do with laughter?

Ask anyone who has felt the oppressor's lash, and it makes difference whether he is a Catholic, or Jew, he must utter:

"Laughter is a weapon which leaves the oppressor helpless, and it is a shield of the spirit which defeats him."

Like The Lion

All the bullies of history are like the lion of the ancient fable: the lion swaggered through the jungle, parading his strength, and roared at the rabbit:

"Who is the strongest and most ferocious animal in the world?" "You of course," the rabbit trembled, and scurried away.

The lion approached in turn the zebra, the buffalo, and the tiger with the same question. And all three quickly agreed that the lion was, indeed, king of all the beasts.

But when the lion roared at the elephant: "Who is king of all the beasts?" he was picked up quickly by the elephant's trunk, battered against a tree, and dropped, contemptuously, to the ground.

Whereupon the lion whined: "Just because you don't know the answer, you don't have to lose your temper."

Unconquerable Spirit

At their doom, history's tyrants learn too late that the bodies of free men may be overcome, but their spirit is unconquerable.

The oppressor have always borne their burden with laughter whether the burden is Pharaoh, Caesar, Hitler, or Stalin. Laughter is his shield, but faith is his rock. Without the faith of Abraham, Jacob and Moses, he could not have survived his tribulations.

But faith, sometimes frail in the

TURK'S BRIDE IS ARRESTED

BOSTON (AP)—A visiting professor from Istanbul, Turkey, today blamed a lack of English and supermarket shopping for his latest misfortune—the jailing of his bride of four months.

"It's all a mistake," said Yorgi Dimitriyadi, a visiting faculty member at Harvard after posting $500 bail for his wife, Ferhan, 35, who is charged with larceny.

Mrs. Dimitriyadi left her Cambridge home Thursday noon on her first solo shopping trip. When she failed to return, Dimitriyadi reported her missing.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Dimitriyadi had been arrested on a charge of larceny from a store in downtown Boston. She couldn't speak English. The arresting officers couldn't speak Turkish. She was held overnight.

Then the police communications system showed her missing. The professor was notified and he hurried to the jail to post a $500 bond for her release.

Dimitriyadi said he had always accompanied his wife on shopping trips, mostly to supermarkets. "When we do our shopping at the supermarket we bring all the goods to the cashier," Dimitriyadi said. "But Ferhan was not familiar with shopping in department stores."

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—A man identified as a key figure in the tri-state seven million dollar narcotics ring has changed his plea from innocent to guilty.

Nicholas Serrian, 43, owner of the Tumble Inn at Buena, near Vineland, entered the surprise plea yesterday before Federal Judge Thomas H. Madden.

In Carmen Basilio's first Madison Square Garden appearance he broke his hand in 1950 against Vic Cardell.

face of man's inhumanity to man, must often be tempered with humor, as iron with carbon, to produce a tougher, more resistant substance.

There was a rabbi known for his long daily prayers, and his abiding conviction that they would always be answered. After one arduous prayer, his wife asked: "And what did you pray for today?"

Like Good Medicine

"That the rich should give greater alms to the poor," he said. "Do you think God heard your prayer?" she asked.

And the rabbi replied: "I'm sure he heard at least half of it, because the poor have agreed to accept."

Perhaps the unique ingredient of an enduring faith is a man's capacity to laugh at himself for a "merry heart doeth good like a medicine."

This story was very likely told when chariots were the only railroads. But it is now being relayed to spice the bitter struggle of a people to create a nation in that troubled corner of the world called Israel. A Hebrew stretched himself across the railroad tracks with a loaf of bread under his arm. A policeman came running up quickly and demanded:

"What do you think you're doing?"

A Good Reason

"Waiting for the train to run over me," the man said. "I do not wish to live any longer."

NEGLECTED MEN

Rocket Craze Warps Defense Planning; Manpower Needs Being Sadly Neglected

THE NATIONAL GUARD, Air and Army, is being sold down the river of false economy.

This volunteer force that gives the most for the smallest fraction of each defense dollar is being sacrificed by meat axe technique in Sputnik inspired, false emphasis, budget trimming.

America has become dangerously rocket happy. Missiles have become more important than men.

The desk fighter's popular, science fiction dream of push button, intercontinental wars has captured so many imaginations that America is about to accept the dangerous dictum that for combat, men have become obsolete.

KHRUSHCHEV nurtured this theme for us in one of his well planned speeches early in the brief period that Sputnik successes were giving him a world wide forum.

If Nikita Khrushchev actually believes that malarkey, why is Russia still training pilots?

Why are Russian crews being drafted into an ever expanding Soviet submarine force?

Why does Russia, in the face of world clamor for arms reduction, cling tenaciously to the largest army in the world?

The Soviets have 175 divisions, on full active duty at all times! Billions are being spent on their modernization.

Khrushchev, distrustful of Field Marshal Voroshilov, degraded him to Siberian obscurity for his resistance to Communist party surveillance within this powerful force.

Khrushchev and his henchmen are insistent that this great mass of military manpower will unquestioningly fight foreign wars for the expansion of Moscow's own brand of aggressive Marxism.

Thus, when Khrushchev says men have become obsolete, his policies give his words the lie.

MEN can never become obsolete in a man-made activity.

Great teams of men are essential to the coordination, operation, and relocation of these increasingly complicated and science inspired engines of war. The greater and more complex the machines become, the greater the need for more men, disciplined into smoothly functioning, fearless teams.

That engines of war must be coordinated, operated, and relocated by large teams of trained men is a principle of warfare that goes back to the ballistics and the battering rams that Caesar used in ancient Gaul. They were the engines the scientists of his day contributed to warfare.

Note the emphasis upon relocation of weapons. No war has ever been won, or ever will be won, without a combination of fire and movement. Any rocket base we cannot readily transfer from to another is a base America will not have very long. The enemy will capture or destroy it. In each alternate position, where the weapons are actually located, there must be defense by ground troops, air cover, patrolling submarines.

All this fire and movement by weapons old and new call for men, trained men with team work instincts.

No cannon was ever any better than the artillerymen who fired it. And let us never forget that a rocket is just another form of artillery.

WHERE DOES America find these teams and teams of men? The full time, active forces of the Army, Air Force and Navy are already small. They are but little more than vocational schools for the development and teaching of techniques and job skills. In these each private costs the taxpayer over $5,000 a year. Higher ratings and ranks cost proportionately more.

Long ago it was decided America should initially depend heavily upon volunteers from civil life who would organize themselves into appropriate team units, and training with the professional and playing specifications of the regulars. These techniques and team training are readily transferable to newer weapons.

THE NATIONAL GUARD, air and ground, along with less completely organized reserves of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, is America's most immediate source for citizen soldier and air volunteers for such service. be it with rifles or rockets.

By coordinating civilian and military interests, these teams of vocational service men give the taxpayer the most for the least cost to the treasury of any defense agency.

IN THIS sudden delusion that push buttons can defend a great nation, the already small, compact, well trained Guard units are being meat axed by a strength reduction of 76,000 men from their earlier 436,000.

This is just enough to wreck the organizational strength and morale of the 360,000 now being budgeted. The so-called saving is penny wise and pound foolish. The cost of each guardsman is but one-sixth of that of a full time soldier or airman of like grade.

This small corps d'elite of America's trained and fully organized combat manpower is normally expanded, when money is tight, as an economy measure. Today we witness the folly of reduction.

USS WISCONSIN IN MOTHBALLS

BAYONNE, N. J. (AP)—The Wisconsin, the U.S. Navy's last active battleship, joins the mothball fleet today.

The commission pennant will be hauled down aboard the 45,000-ton ship in a half-hour ceremony.

A veteran of Pacific Ocean battles of World War II and the Korean war, the Wisconsin goes into mothballs for the second time. Launched Dec. 3, 1943, she was decommissioned in 1948 only to be returned to duty in 1951 to bombard the coast of North Korea.

The U.S. Navy thus is without a dreadnaught for the first time since 1895. The USS Indiana was commissioned on Nov. 20 that year as the first American vessel built especially to perform the function of a battleship.

The Wisconsin cost 110 million dollars. Her nine 16-inch guns saw action at Leyte, Luzon, Formosa, Hong Kong, Indo China, Iwo Jima and Japan during World War II.

After the NATO fall exercises, the Wisconsin on pulled into New York harbor on Nov. 4, 1957, and was towed to drydock at the supply depot here a few days later.

Her crew at decommissioning numbered 652 officers and men, compared to a wartime complement of more than 2,500.

SOUTH KOREA ASKS NEW PACT

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korean Foreign Minister Cho Chong Whan said today a working level meeting between his government and the United States will be held shortly to discuss a status of forces agreement.

The U.S. Embassy had no comment on Cho's statement. The agreement would allow South Korean courts to try American servicemen for off-duty offenses.

Cho was asked by newsmen whether a meeting was prompted by the case of a South Korean boy who was caught by U.S. Army personnel last month with stolen goods and then beaten, tarred, stuffed in a box and flown 25 miles away.

The foreign minister said a "strong protest" of the incident had been made to the U.S. Embassy but his government has long demanded a status of forces treaty.

Two officers and a sergeant have been charged with mistreating the 14-year-old boy. They face a court-martial.

PCA INSTITUTE TUESDAY IN YORK

Two veteran York County political leaders will share the platform with two out-of-town experts at the Pennsylvania Citizens Association Institute on "The Legislative Process and Citizen Action" at the Hotel Yorktowne on Tuesday. Senator Harry E. Seyler and Henry B. Lederer, the governor's legislative secretary, will be joined by Mrs. Mary T. Denman, former assemblyman from Westmoreland County, and A. David Bouterse, executive director of the PCA, in an all-day meeting open to the public.

"How the Legislature Works" will be depicted by a color film with audience questions being answered by Mrs. Denman and Mr. Lederer. The session starts at 10:30 a.m. In the afternoon Senator Seyler and Mr. Bouterse will discuss "Citizen Action" and the role of the citizen in helping to develop public policy.

"So many people have requested PCA to conduct this type of institute," Mr. Bouterse said, "that we have arranged to hold a series of two one-day sessions in more than 20 communities throughout the state. The second all-day meeting in York will be held on April 22 when attention will be directed to state health and welfare services and some of the issues facing the public regarding these programs in 1958."

A luncheon discussion of "Pennsylvania's Tax Resources and Needs" will be led by Robert Zeigler, Pennsylvania Economy League executive from Reading.

The York County Council of Community Services, the York County United Fund and the Adams County Council of Community Services are sponsoring the institutes and carry responsibility for the promotion and management of the meetings. Franklin and Fulton Counties are also being invited to attend.

School Advertisers For Good Teachers

FLORAL PARK, N.Y. (AP)—The Sewanhaka Central High School has resorted to bigtime advertising techniques to lure teachers to this Nassau County area.

A pamphlet concerning the community has been sent to teachers colleges throughout the country. The 13-page booklet shows teachers golfing and sailboating, and stresses Long Island's beaches and New York City's cultural offerings.

Also, salaries are listed: up to $8,000 annually for teachers with bachelor degrees, up to $8,500 for those with master degrees, and up to $9,000 for those with doctorates.

BUILDING AND FARM

Cleaning Lawn Of Accumulation Of Winter Debris Is First Job Of Spring Urges County Agent

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

With the first signs of spring the first outdoors job that can be done is the lawn clean-up program. You should remove trash accumulated from winter winds, and leaves that have blown on the lawn and matted down.

Use care in selection of the rake for spring clean-up. If turf is dense use a flexible toothed leaf rake that will not pull grass plants out of the soil. Every grass plant raked out may be replaced by a weed.

If bare or thin areas are to be reseeded, rake those areas enough to produce some loose soil on the surface. On these areas a rigid toothed garden rake can be used. Reseed areas as soon as they are raked out. When seed is sown, lightly rake the areas to mix the seed in the soil. The areas reseeded can be rolled with a light roller to firm the soil around the seed.

Early Seeding Important

Early seeding is important, so make seeding in March, or earlier, if soil conditions permit. If a seed-bed can be prepared and seeded in late February or March the new grass plants will be able to develop into mature plants resistant to the hot dry summer weather. Lawn seeds sown in late May or early June seldom produce mature grass plants. These late seeded grass plants are still seedling plants when the hot dry weather arrives. Weeds, because they grow rapidly at that season, crowd out the seedling grass plants.

Tree seedlings must be kept moist from the time they leave the nursery until they are planted.

A good root system is essential to successful planting and, unless care is taken, roots dry out very rapidly and are injured.

Water Seedlings

With an upsurge of tree planting under the soil bank conservation reserve plan and other state and federal programs to encourage rebuilding of forest reserves, many land owners without previous experience will be planting trees this spring. These new foresters should water seedlings immediately when they arrive from the nursery and plant them as soon as possible. Stored in a cool place and kept moist, they will remain in good condition for several days.

Seedlings that must be kept for more than four or five days should be "heeled in" in moist soil. To do this, dig an open V-shaped trench. Then open the bundle of trees and spread the roots out along one side of the trench. Fill in with soil so all roots are covered and drench with water. Stamp down the soil for a firm covering and keep moist until planting.

On planting day, be sure to keep the roots covered with a damp material like wet moss, or keep them submerged in a puddle or bucket. Never allow the roots to be exposed to sun or wind, even for an hour.

Utilize Pasture

Many beef cattle feeders are utilizing pasture in their feeding programs. How the cattle are fed this winter will help determine the economy of pasture gains next spring and summer.

Cattle, headed for pasture in spring should be fed primarily on roughage this winter to gain about one to one and a half pounds daily. Greater gains than this caused by heavy winter feeding will result in lower gains on pasture. Cattle carrying considerable condition when turned on pasture do not respond to pasture like lean cattle wintered for growth but not for finish.

Half-fed cattle frequently gain little or nothing the first few weeks on pasture unless grain is

Overall dimensions of "The Stone" are 46' x 25'; cubage is 22,000 feet. If you want either a detached or attached garage, it is easy enough to have one constructed by making arrangements with your contractor before actual building begins. However, if you have a garage built, or plan to have one sometime in the future, you'll need a lot larger than the 70-foot one which could easily accommodate "The Stone" by itself.

Shutters can be used advantageously to dress up the exterior of "The Stone." If you use white shutters or clapboard for the exterior finish of this charmingly modern home, colored blinds will add just the right touch of brightness to the house exterior.

Multi-colored roofing can also be used to give a touch of brightness to the exterior of "The Stone." Low bushes and flowering plants make the most attractive border plantings; simple landscaping is best. To make the front entrance more attractive you can plant rambling roses or any flowers that climb, so they will grow up the trellis work at the left of the front door.

In the entry hall, which leads from the front door to the living room, there is an unusually long coat closet that can easily hold guests' hats, coats, etc., in addition to all your family's stormy weather equipment. Measuring 18' x 13' 14", the living room actually is a connecting link with the rest of the rooms in "The Stone."

In the front wall, the handsome picture window, flanked by case window, looks out on the flowering plants in the plant box and the well-cared-for front lawn. Try to place your house that you'll also be able to reap full benefits, through these windows, of whatever view may be available.

If you so desire, bookshelves could be built in along the back wall from the massive fireplace to the right wall of the living room. Or, if you prefer, bookshelves can be built along the left wall of the room.

One window in the front wall and another in the right wall provide good lighting and cross ventilation in the 10' 6" x 10' dining room. China cabinets built into both the front and back right corners of the room provide ample storage space in which the lady of the house can keep her fine china and glassware.

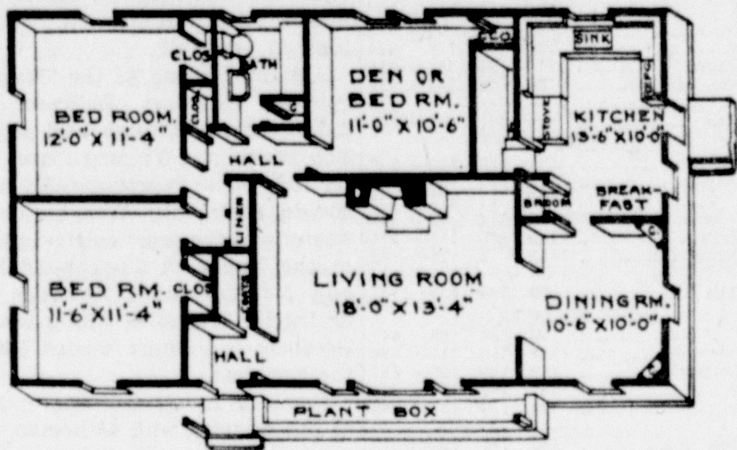

Breakfast Nook
Connected directly with the dining room, the kitchen contains a spacious breakfast nook and a large broom closet as well as plenty of handy working counters, cupboards and cabinets, arranged in a U-shaped array along the left, back and right walls. The sink is centered in the line of working counters, under the window in the back wall.

The bedrooms and bath cannot be reached directly from the kitchen of "The Stone"; it is necessary to go through the living room to get to any of these three rooms. Measuring 11' x 10' 6", the den or bedroom has two large windows in the back wall and a good sized closet in the right wall. This room can serve either purpose with equal ease and, if you so desire, can be used as a guest room.

Modernly equipped with both a tub and a shower, the bathroom receives ample light and ventilation from one window in its back wall. This room also boasts a large closet in its right wall—a closet that can be used as a storage place for clean towels and also for bathroom cleaning equipment.

Across the central hall is the unusually large linen closet which can accommodate a good supply of good linen, etc. And without too much pondering any housewife will be able to find good use for the extra closet, also opening on the central hall, just to the right of the door to the back bedroom.

Good lighting and cross ventilation are assured in the back bedroom, for there is one window in the back wall and another on the left wall. There also is a large storage closet in this 12' x 11' 14" bedroom which is designed to be used as the master bedroom. The long unbroken front wall will facilitate arrangement of large furniture pieces.

Windows in both left and front walls insure good light and cross ventilation for the occupant of the front bedroom. This 11' 6" x 11' 4" bedroom also boasts a generous-size closet.

Put the heating equipment under the living room in the full cement basement recommended for "The Stone." The laundry can be installed under the kitchen. The use to which you put the remaining basement area is up to you, but be sure to provide sufficient bulkheads for the sake of convenience and safety in going from the basement to the yard—and vice versa.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Winter is practically over; spring is almost here. A look at the thermometer may not indicate this, and there may be feet of snow and inches of ice on the ground and sheathing the trees and shrubs.

But the shortest day of the year has passed, and we are moving into the new season. The plants — which may look deceptively asleep — are coming to life with spring not far away. The time has come when we can even speed up the arrival of warm weather by making a little spring in our houses. Cut a few branches from spring blooming trees and shrubs — forsythia is the easiest but apple branches are lovely, too — and bring them inside for forcing.

Take bud branches which will need pruning anyway, so as not to spoil the shape of the plant. After pruning, make a slanting cut with a sharp knife at the base of the stem (to give the branch as much drinking surface as possible) and place in a container of tepid water. Keep in a dark warmish (not hot) spot for a few days, and then bring them out into the light to blossom.

Thorough Soaking

If you are in a hurry — and have an adequate supply of bathtub — the buds start to swell sooner if the branches can be given a thorough full-length soaking in tepid water.

This forcing process need not be confined merely to flowering shrubs and trees; one may also force delicate pussy willow and handsome red maple branches, to mention but two of many, many possibilities.

The main requirement is that the branches selected be heavily budded — just take a close look. Incidentally, a charming terrarium can be made — in a fish bowl, preferably — by using such material. If small trees are wanted, cut twigs, peel the bark off the ends and crush the ends lightly with a hammer. In the bowl, put a couple of inches of clean sand, sphagnum moss or expanded mica (or any of the sterile growing mediums) to hold the stems upright. Pour in water until it reaches the top of the holding material. Place the arrangement in a dark place until the buds begin to swell — and then bring a bowl of

Zettle Warns Against Use Of Home-grown Seeds; Diseases

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

Most home grown potatoes, beans and peas become infected with disease that may cause severe losses in the next year's crop. To avoid losses growers should obtain bean and pea seed that has been grown in the drier regions of the West. Such seed should not be infected with anthracnose and bacterial blight or other common diseases. Most home grown potatoes become infected with virus diseases and may also contain other serious disease pathogens. Certified potato seed is usually almost free of any disease that may produce yields, because certified growers remove and destroy diseased plants and take other special measures to keep the crop free of disease. The potato crops in Pennsylvania are certified by a state inspector as complying with the minimum requirements for disease infestation.

The producer of early lambs has more problems than the sheepman who plans lambing season for warm weather. But the selling price of early lambs usually justifies those extra problems, provided they can be solved.

Bad luck during lambing season is all too often the result of poor management and lack of preparation.

Even though sheep can stand considerable cold, they still need a well-bedded barn, free from drafts and damp floors, when lambs are dropped during the winter. It is best to be on hand in person, to insure a good lamb crop. Lambs may need help, or they may become chilled. You can't get a full night's sleep and expect to wean a big lamb crop. Get newly-born lambs dry quick. Put the lamb and its mother in a lambing pen, or claiming pen, made of two hurdles hinged together. There will be fewer disowned lambs, and the ewe can be fed more carefully. The ewe ought to get very little grain for the first two or three days.

"Access To A Creep"

When the lambs reach two weeks of age, give them access to a creep, where you can feed them a simple grain mixture until pasture is ready in the spring. Provide the creep with openings about eight to ten inches wide. Place it in a sunny corner of the barn or shed. Give the lambs all the grain they will eat, and some choice hay that has been saved especially for them.

Check your bees as soon as the weather permits. The prolonged cold spell this winter, after the short honey crops last fall in some areas, will find many bees weak or low on food.

Clean out the opening and see that there is sufficient food. A colony will need at least two frames of food in reserve at all times. Feeding of sugar syrup may be done at any time the bees are flying or when the outside temperature is above 50 degrees F. Dry granulated sugar may be fed at any time, but some moisture must be present for the bees to make efficient use of the sugar. Some beekeepers place just a few drops of water on the edge of the sugar to give the bees a start.

Stimulating feeding is a big help in building a strong colony for the early honey flows from locust and tulip poplar as well as for pollination. Start this feeding about six weeks before the bees are needed or about the middle of March. Use a sugar syrup made up of two parts sugar to one part water by volume. This feeding is done whether or not the colony has food.

Check colonies which may be dead. If the colony has died of disease, there is a good possibility of spreading the disease through robbing. Either close these colonies or carry them into a close building. Clean the diseased equipment and destroy the combs.

Have extra equipment ready; early brood rearing and very early minor honey flows will cause the colony to become crowded and, possibly, to swarm.

Great Outdoors Man Masters Fire Making Without Smoke, Sweat Or Tears Says Scribe

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN

AP Newsfeatures Writer
Primitive man is supposed to have discovered fire by tossing a rock at a dinosaur, missing striking another rock and setting off a huge conflagration with the resulting spark.

Several thousand years later, outdoor man — the civilized fellow tossing matches by the book load into a barbecue pit — wonders if it ever was that easy.

Starting a fire, a problem that has tried the patience of cave-men, explorers, Boy Scouts and backyard chefs down through the ages, has a ways been such a formidable task that one wonders whether arsonists aren't the best paid members of the underworld. Even the Boy Scouts have surrendered to the realities of the situation and rolled back their old Second Class requirement that called for starting a fire with only two matches.

But at last relief is in sight. Inventors have come to the rescue and solved a problem that stone age man is supposed to have disposed of before the dawn of history.

Homemakers who despaired of ever getting a part-time job in a blast furnace because of their ineptitude at starting a fire can find comfort in a variety of do-it-yourself fire-making aids. Happily, none of them involves rubbing sticks together.

Kindling No Problem
For a small investment, a fellow can procure an imposing array of incendiary implements guaranteed to set his hearth to blazing and his barbecue pit to roaring.

First, there's the matter of kindling wood. No need to dash about the backyard picking up twigs, old berry boxes and empty Scotch crates when several manufacturers now offer "concentrate kindling wood" at 49 cents a package. The stuff is guaranteed to go up like a strawberry box, which also sells for about 49 cents.

strawberries included.

And forget about old newspapers, too. The Cape Horn fire lighter, in the opinion of its manufacturer, "eliminates the use of paper" and thereby qualifies as the "perfect companion for fireplace and barbecue pit."

Except for its gleaming brass finish, the Cape Horn item looks suspiciously like a locomotive engineer's oil can. It accomplishes its combustible purpose by squirting kerosene on your kindling.

If your fire still refuses to light, it's time to try a soapstone fire starter, a torch-like affair that looks like the original flaming shaft. The idea is to light the fire starter, hold it aloft for a moment, shishka-bob fashion to get a good flame working, then thrust it into the middle of your kindling.

Flame Comes to Life

Failing that, you can proceed to an electric fire starter that is supposed to ignite your charcoal briquettes almost on contact.

Now, at last, a spark has been struck and a flame is leaping to life. Or at least we hope so. The next step is to keep it going. Since chemists define fire as the rapid combinations of oxygen with other matter, there is a compelling need to rapidly bring more oxygen into the fireplace.

But no need to blow your brains out or wear out your arm fanning the flames. Again several of necessity's ingenious offspring are on hand to help you. There is, for instance, the "biopoke," a long brass tube resembling a glass blower's rod. You puff gently into the tube and a virtual hurricane whirls out the other end.

If that doesn't do the trick, you replace your own breath with a synthetic product emitted from a battery-operated fire blower, which looks amazingly like a woman's hair dryer. In fact, there's no reason why you can't haul out the little woman's hair dryer on a long extension cord or hook up the blower on the vacuum cleaner.

No self-respecting backyard chef would ever settle for a plain old fire — not in this age of scientific sublimity. Naturally, you'll want to dress up your blaze with factory-packaged hickory chips, store-bought birch logs and a sprinkling of special fire powder called "chimney sweep."

"Just sprinkle chimney sweep on your fire," the package proclaims, "then all evening long watch the flames sprinkle a brilliant rainbow of colors: glorious blues, greens, reds and yellows." The greens, presumably, are for ceremonial fires on St. Patrick's Day.

Giant Spatula Needed

By this time, of course, you know more about making a hot time in the old town tonight than Og, son of fire, or even Vulcan himself. So you'll want to dress up your outdoor fireside with a genuine wrought iron log holder; a combination kerosene lamp and bug killer; heavy asbestos chef's gloves for strategically rearranging hot coals; and a giant spatula capable of flipping a whole side of buffalo.

Other gimmicks and gadgets stand ready to help you during the cooking process. Your meat has been succulently cured for a day or more in an electric "Texas Smoker" to give it that old-fashioned smoked flavor.

An electric rotisserie keeps it turning, and an unbreakable pin thermometer gives you periodic readings on its progress. Overhead, a tent-sized umbrella keeps the elements from your eyes.

In the background, an electric freezer churns the ice cream and at the same time crushes ice for your drinks. Army surplus mess trays, "odor-proof" wooden spoons and shatterproof tumblers are stacked for your guests.

Even Flido, man's best friend next to fire, has been put to work hauling the groceries in a real, honest-to-gosh dog cart that sells for only $120.

While all this is going on, you settle back comfortably in a genuine Siwa camel seat originally designed, so the tag says, "for the comfort of caravan travelers on desert journeys."

Outdoor eating, thanks to the inventors, has now become almost as scientifically thrilling as indoor eating. In fact, you might want to rough it some day by going back indoors for a summer meal.

HARD VS SOFTWOOD

Hardwoods generally come from trees with broad leaves. Most softwoods come from evergreens.

The temperature in Djibouti, French Somaliland, on the north coast of Africa varies between 77 and 113 degrees.

The Weeders Guide

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Gardening, as we gardeners are fond of saying, is an interest that keeps you outdoors at least seven months of the year. And, we are likely to add in this neighborhood, we would rather have our definite seasons, including nasty old winter, because it is during this time when we positively, absolutely cannot garden that our interest is whetted again for the next season.

This, as it turns out, is nonsense. I find that, year round — including midwinter — I am likely to be concerned with gardening interests. Over a recent Saturday and Sunday, for instance, my principle reading was a garden book — one about old-fashioned gardens. A routine chore was care for the house plants — except for feeding which I skipped because this is a time when most of them go a bit dormant.

Inspect Each Plant And Bulb

I inspected each plant for signs of bugs, brushed off the leaves of the African violets with a soft brush, sponged off the leaves of the foliage plants, and turned all the plants around in the window box so they wouldn't lean too far over, reaching as they do toward the sunshine.

There were the stored bulbs to be checked — to make certain the peatmoss surrounding the dahlias tubers was still moist, to look for signs of thrips on the gladioli. Both were fine.

Other jobs, too, related to the garden. The fireplace, for instance, had an overload of ashes. They went into a cardboard box, to be stored in a corner of the cellar until spring when they will be scattered around the peonies, which appreciate a feeding of hardwood ashes, high in potash.

This Is Routine Winter Work

And, of course, there is that regular tour of the garden beds, to press back a lupine here whose roots were partly bare from a freeze followed by a thaw, to uncover the crown of some hollyhocks smothering under wet leaves, to fill in a hole dug by a dog but which is filling with water of melted snow, to make a tiny channel and drain off standing water at the base of shrubs.

All this is routine winter work, all this is gardening. And so are some of the other jobs — like making an emergency repair to the cold frame. (Somebody broke the plastic top, but fortunately it could be fixed with staples and the wintering cuttings of verbena, snapdragons and perennial seedlings were not injured.) And the wooden garden furniture in the cellar received its second coating of thinned linseed oil.

And the seed catalogues will start arriving any minute. That means the maps and notes on the garden beds will be coming out, and planning will start for the season's gardens.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. — A man walked into a store here and demanded a $27 refund for three pairs of trousers.

The man, William Lundy, 55, Wallingford, Conn., landed in jail. He had stolen the trousers from the store, police said.

ON THE HOUSE

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures

Bathroom, kitchen, dinette and hallway walls can get a new look with plastic tile. The material is ideal, too, in children's rooms where sturdy materials must be combined with attractiveness.

Unusual effects may be achieved with tile. Two or three colors can put gingham or candy stripe designs on the wall. Or perhaps you'll choose a fleur de lis pattern to be contrasted with a solid mass in traditional effects.

Home handy men or women may find application of wall tiles an easy chore if instructions are followed. (If you do not follow instructions or choose adhesives that are not meant for the product, you may wind up with a mess.)

Be Systematic

Be systematic. It takes a little longer to mark off tile square than to mark off tile square. This problem can be corrected easily, provided there is no structural fault or obstruction in the chimney. Smoking fireplaces often are caused by the fuel supports being too low within the fireplace. Thus the burning wood is not caught in the updraft of the chimney.

Raise Grate

Try this: raise the grate or fuel basket in your fireplace by about two inches. Do this by sliding bricks, turned sidewise, under the sheets of newspapers and place them on the grate. Put a match to the newspaper and see how the fireplace draws.

If smoke still pours into the room from the fireplace, the fuel basket or grate need, to be lifted still higher. Do this gradually, inch by inch, repeating the newspaper experiment each time until you find the exact spot at which the fireplace draws properly.

Other correspondence —

T. T. Quill, of Waterbury, Conn., writes:

"Will you please give instructions on how to paint a stucco house and what kind of paint, and oblige?"

There are a number of good masonry paints on the market. Any reliable paint dealer can help you with your selection and you can give you detailed tips on applying the paint to a stucco surface.

Mrs. E. R. Ahrens, of Lyndhurst, N. J., sends in this household hint to "On The House" readers:

"Do not throw away teen-agers' bobby sox. Use them for applying polish and for polishing furniture or for applying wax cleaner on windows and wiping them off. Put them on your hand, like a glove."

B. M. Carlson, of Ft. Dodge, Iowa, writes:

"I would like to know if anything can be done about the smears around the nail holes from the filler mixed by the paint company. The woodwork is birch and fir. The first coat applied was a 50-50 shellac and alcohol. The second step was the filler. The third step, a gloss varnish. The fourth step, a satin varnish. Our woodwork is quite light in color."

The filler should have been applied first, then sanded after drying, and then the thinned shellac

which serves as a sealer before varnishing or painting. However, do this:

Wrap fine sandpaper over one end of a cork and sand the smears down to the raw wood. Then mix a solution of two parts of alcohol to one part of shellac and apply two or three coats, allowing each coat to dry thoroughly. This thin shellac solution is recommended so you can feather out the edges properly.

Now dampen a cloth with light machine oil and dip it into powdered pumice. Go over the spots carefully with this and the smears should be cleared up. Use paste wax as a final coat.

Advantages In Ready Built Home Are Cited

Most families, faced with the decision to buy a new house or build one, find the solution in their own pocketbooks.

Here are some major advantages that may sometimes be found in buying a new, ready-built home, as compared with building a specially-designed home.

1. Overall financial savings. Development builders and small contractors buy materials in large quantities at lower cost. They buy land in large chunks. Their labor costs often are lower.

2. Less cash outlay and lower interest rates. Development buyers and some small contractors have financing setups which can result in lower down payments.

3. Land development and utilities. New homes built for sale almost invariably are on developed land — with paved streets, sidewalks, sewers, water lines and utilities.

4. Landscaping. Most large builders and some small ones include grading, landscaping and driveways in the house price.

5. Quality materials. Reputable builders choose good materials which are installed with less trouble.

6. "Luxury bonuses." Builders often add sales features such as expensive wall paneling, basement game rooms and even small swimming pools.

Most building authorities agree, however, that one of the biggest mistakes home buyers can make is to spend their housing dollars for luxuries and fail to get good basic design and construction.

How can you avoid this trap? Here are some questions to ask yourself — and the builder, if necessary — as you go through model houses:

How many are in my family, how much room do we need? Will the house be comfortable in hot and cold weather? Are electrical outlets where you need them? Is there enough current in the house?

Finally, do you know and approve of the builder's reputation?

Four Factors In Checkup On Building Plans

Should you build your own new house instead of buying a ready-made one?

Here are four factors by which to grade yourself as a prospect for a specially-designed home:

1. Build, if you own or can acquire a plot of ground in a neighborhood you like.

2. Build, if you've toured the housing developments and inspected individual new homes for sale without finding anything that satisfies you.

3. Build, if your desires are highly individual and you have the plan you want, or if you know an architect who can design these desires into a house.

4. Build, if your budget is flexible enough to meet the cost. Usually it costs more to build a house than it does to buy a ready-built one.

Any Style Can Be Yours
What are the principal advantages of building new as opposed to buying new?

Location — You can put the house where you want it. Style — Any style can be yours if you're willing and able to pay. Space — If you've owned or rented a house previously, you have a good idea of your minimum space requirements and can provide for them.

Traffic pattern — You know the habits of your family best and can work out the house's traffic pattern accordingly with the architect.

Building materials — You can make your own selection of materials which will give the best service and will look best.

Careful Planning a Must
Other advantages of custom construction include rooms in sizes you like, work and play areas where you want them, and less waste space generally. Careful planning is the most important factor in getting started.

Do keep your financial status in mind so that you will not go overboard in size and style of the house and its equipment.

Do investigate both the architect and/or the builder before you commit yourself.

Do follow the advice of the architect after you have selected him.

Don't change design and equipment after construction actually has started. It will cost you money.

Don't make a nuisance of yourself at the building site. You will slow things down.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Thieves stole salesman Bill Meller's samples again. But, as in the past, he had little trouble getting them back.

Meller sells shoes. His samples are nearly 200 new shoes—all for the left foot.

For the third time in eight years, thieves stole the shoes yesterday, then discarded them—apparently in disgust. Police found them all three times.

Great Outdoors Man Masters Fire Making Without Smoke, Sweat Or Tears Says Scribe

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Primitive man is supposed to have discovered fire by tossing a rock at a dinosaur, missing striking another rock and setting off a huge conflagration with the resulting spark.

Several thousand years later, outdoor man — the civilized fellow tossing matches by the book load into a barbecue pit — wonders if it ever was that easy.

Starting a fire, a problem that has tried the patience of cave-men, explorers, Boy Scouts and backyard chefs down through the ages, has always been such a formidable task that one wonders whether arsonists aren't the best paid members of the underworld.

Even the Boy Scouts have surrendered to the realities of the situation and rolled back their old Second Class requirement that called for starting a fire with only two matches.

But at last relief is in sight. Inventors have come to the rescue and solved a problem that stone age man is supposed to have disposed of before the dawn of history.

Homemakers who despaired of ever getting a part-time job in a blast furnace because of their ineptitude at starting a fire can find comfort in a variety of do-it-yourself fire-making aids. Happily, none of them involves rubbing sticks together.

Kindling No Problem
For a small investment, a fellow can procure an imposing array of incendiary implements guaranteed to set his hearth to blazing and his barbecue pit to roaring.

First, there's the matter of kindling wood. No need to dash about the backyard picking up twigs, old berry boxes and empty Scotch crates when several manufacturers now offer "concentrate kindling wood" at 49 cents a package. The stuff is guaranteed to go up like a strawberry box, which also sells for about 49 cents.

And forget about old newspapers, too. The Cape Horn fire lighter, in the opinion of its manufacturer, "eliminates the use of paper" and thereby qualifies as the "perfect companion for fire-place and barbecue pit."

Except for its gleaming brass finish, the Cape Horn item looks suspiciously like a locomotive engineer's oil can. It accomplishes its combustible purpose by squirting kerosene on your kindling.

If your fire still refuses to light, it's time to try a soapstone fire starter, a torch-like affair that looks like the original flaming shaft. The idea is to light the fire starter, hold it aloft for a moment shishka-bob fashion to get a good flame working, then thrust it into the middle of your kindling.

Flame Comes to Life

Falling that, you can proceed to an electric fire starter that is supposed to ignite your charcoal briquettes almost on contact.

Now, at last, a spark has been struck and a flame is leaping to life. Or at least we hope so. The next step is to keep it going. Since chemists define fire as the rapid combinations of oxygen with other matter, there is a compelling need to rapidly bring more oxygen to the fireplace.

But no need to blow your brains out or wear out your arm fanning the flames. Again several of necessity's ingenious offspring are on hand to help you. There is, for instance, the "biopoke," a long brass tube resembling a glass blower's rod. You puff gently into the tube and a virtual hurricane whirls out the other end.

If that doesn't do the trick, you replace your own breath with a synthetic product emitted from a battery-operated fire blower, which looks amazingly like a woman's hair dryer. In fact, there's no reason why you can't haul out the little woman's hair dryer on a long extension cord or hook up the blower on the vacuum cleaner.

No self respecting backyard chef would ever settle for a plain old fire — not in this age of scientific sublimity. Naturally, you'll want to dress up your blaze with factory-packaged hickory chips, store-bought birch logs and a sprinkling of special fire powder called "chimney sweep."

"Just sprinkle chimney sweep on your fire," the package proclaims, "then all evening long watch the flames sprinkle a brilliant rainbow of colors: glorious blues, greens, reds and yellows." The greens, presumably, are for ceremonial fires on St. Patrick's Day.

Giant Spatula Needed

By this time, of course, you know more about making a hot time in the old town tonight than Og, son of fire, or even Vulcan himself. So you'll want to dress up your outdoor fireside with a genuine, wrought iron log holder; a combination kerosene lamp and bug killer; heavy asbestos chef's gloves for strategically rearranging hot coals, and a giant spatula capable of flipping a whole side of buffalo.

Other gimmicks and gadgets stand ready to help you during the cooking process. Your meat has been succulently cured for a day or more in an electric "Texas Smoker" to give it that old-fashioned smoked flavor.

An electric rotisserie keeps it turning, and an unbreakable pin thermometer gives you periodic readings on its progress. Overhead, a tent-sized umbrella keeps the elements from your edibles.

In the background, an electric freezer churns the ice cream and at the same time crushes ice for your drinks. Army surplus mess trays, "odor-proof" wooden spoons and shatterproof tumblers are stacked for your guests.

Even Flido, man's best friend next to fire, has been put to work hauling the groceries in a real, honest-to-gosh dog cart that sells for only $20.

While all this is going on, you settle back comfortably in a genuine Siwa camel seat originally designed, so the tag says, "for the comfort of caravan travelers on desert journeys."

Outdoor eating, thanks to the inventors, has now become almost as scientifically thrilling as indoor eating. In fact, you might want to rough it some day by going back indoors for a summer meal.

HARD VS. SOFTWOOD

Hardwoods generally come from trees with broad leaves. Most softwoods come from evergreens.

The temperature in Djibouti, French Somaliland, on the north coast of Africa varies between 77 and 113 degrees.

The Weeders Guide

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Gardening, as we gardeners are fond of saying, is an interest that keeps you outdoors at least seven months of the year. And, we are likely to add in this neighborhood, we would rather have our definite seasons, including nasty old winter, because it is during this time when we positively, absolutely cannot garden that our interest is whetted again for the next season.

This, as it turns out, is nonsense. I find that, year round — including midwinter — I am likely to be concerned with gardening interests. Over a recent Saturday and Sunday, for instance, my principle reading was a garden book — one about old-fashioned gardens. A routine chore was care for the house plants — except for feeding which I skipped because this is a time when most of them go a bit dormant.

Inspect Each Plant And Bulb

I inspected each plant for signs of bugs, brushed off the leaves of the African violets with a soft brush, sponged off the leaves of the foliage plants, and turned all the plants around in the window box so they wouldn't lean too far over, reaching as they do toward the sunshine.

There were the stored bulbs to be checked — to make certain the peatmoss surrounding the dahlias tubers was still moist, to look for signs of thrips on the gladioli. Both were fine.

Other jobs, too, related to the garden. The fireplace, for instance, had an overload of ashes. They went into a cardboard box, to be stored in a corner of the cellar until spring when they will be scattered around the peonies, which appreciate a feeding of hardwood ashes, high in potash.

This Is Routine Winter Work

And, of course, there is that regular tour of the garden beds, to press back a lupine here whose roots were partly bare from a freeze followed by a thaw, to uncover the crown of some hollyhocks smothering under wet leaves, to fill in a hole dug by a dog but which is filling with water of melted snow, to make a tiny channel and drain off standing water at the base of shrubs.

All this is routine winter work, all this is gardening. And so are some of the other jobs — like making an emergency repair to the cold frame. (Somebody broke the plastic top, but fortunately it could be fixed with staples and the wintering cuttings of verbena, snapdragons and perennial seedlings were not injured.) And the wooden garden furniture in the cellar received its second coating of thinned linseed oil.

And the seed catalogues will start arriving any minute. That means the maps and notes on the garden beds will be coming out, and planning will start for the season's gardens.

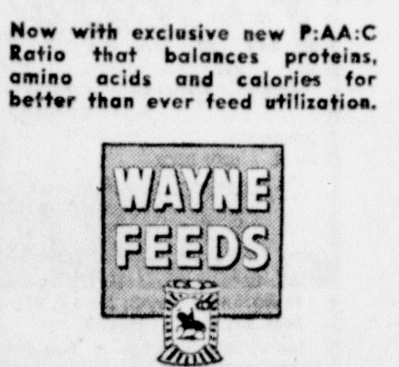

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. — A man walked into a store here and demanded a $27 refund for three pairs of trousers.

The man, William Lundy, 55, Wallingford, Conn., landed in jail. He had stolen the trousers from the store, police said.

First state to abolish capital punishment was Michigan in 1844.

ON THE HOUSE

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Bathroom, kitchen, dinette and hallway walls can get a new look with plastic tile. The material is ideal, too, in children's rooms where sturdy materials must be combined with attractiveness.

Unusual effects may be achieved with tile. Two or three colors can be put gingham or candy stripe designs on the wall. Or perhaps you'll choose a fleur-de-lis pattern to be contrasted with a solid mass in traditional effects.

Home handy men or women may find application of wall tiles an easy chore if instructions are followed. (If you do not follow instructions or choose adhesives that are not meant for the product, you may wind up with a mess.)

Be Systematic

Be systematic. It takes a little longer to mark off the square. This problem can be corrected easily, provided there is no structural fault or obstruction in the chimney. Smoking fireplaces often are caused by the fuel supports being too low within the fireplace. Thus the burning wood is not caught in the updraft of the chimney.

Raise Grate

Try this: raise the grate or fuel basket in your fireplace by about two inches. Do this by sliding bricks, turned sideways, under the sheets of newspapers and place them on the grate. Put a match to the newspaper and see how the fireplace draws.

If smoke still pours into the room from the fireplace, the fuel basket or grate need, to be lifted still higher. Do this gradually, inch by inch, repeating the newspaper experiment each time until you find the exact spot at which the fireplace draws properly.

Other correspondence —
T. T. Quill, of Waterbury, Conn., writes:

"Will you please give instructions on how to paint a stucco house and what kind of paint, and oblige?"

There are a number of good masonry paints on the market. Any reliable paint dealer can help you with your selection and you can give you detailed tips on applying the paint to a stucco surface.

Mrs. E. R. Ahrens, of Lyndhurst, N. J., sends in this household hint to "On The House" readers:

"Do not throw away teen-agers' bobby sox. Use them for applying polish and for polishing furniture or for applying wax cleaner on windows and wiping them off. Put them on your hand, like a glove."

B. M. Carlson, of Ft. Dodge, Iowa, writes:

"I would like to know if anything can be done about the smears around the nail holes from the filler mixed by the paint company. The woodwork is birch and fir. The first coat applied was a 50-50 shellac and alcohol. The second step was the filler. The third step, a gloss varnish. The fourth step, a satin varnish. Our woodwork is quite light in color."

The filler should have been applied first, then sanded after drying, and then the thinned shellac

which serves as a sealer before varnishing or painting. However, do this:

Wrap fine sandpaper over one end of a cork and sand the smears down to the raw wood. Then mix a solution of two parts of alcohol to one part of shellac and apply two or three coats, allowing each coat to dry thoroughly. This thin shellac solution is recommended so you can feather out the edges properly.

Advantages In Ready Built Home Are Cited

Most families, faced with the decision to buy a new house or build one, find the solution in their own pocketbooks.

Here are some major advantages that may sometimes be found in buying a new, ready-built home, as compared with building a specially-designed home.

1. Overall financial savings. Development builders and small contractors buy materials in large quantities at lower cost. They buy land in large chunks. Their labor costs often are lower.

2. Less cash outlay and lower interest rates. Development buyers and some small contractors have financing setups which can result in lower down payments.

3. Land development and utilities. New homes built for sale almost invariably are on developed land — with paved streets, sidewalks, sewers, water lines and utilities.

4. Landscaping. Most large builders and some small ones include grading, landscaping and driveways in the house price.

5. Quality materials. Reputable builders choose good materials which are installed with less trouble.

6. "Luxury bonuses." Builders often add sales features such as expensive wall paneling, basement game rooms and even small swimming pools.

Most building authorities agree, however, that one of the biggest mistakes home buyers can make is to spend their housing dollars for luxuries and fail to get good basic design and construction.

How many are in my family, how much room do we need? Will the house be comfortable in hot and cold weather? Are electrical outlets where you need them? Is there enough current in the house? Finally, do you know and approve of the builder's reputation?

Four Factors In Checkup On Building Plans

Should you build your own new house instead of buying a ready-made one?

Here are four factors by which to grade yourself as a prospect for a specially-designed home:

1. Build, if you own or can acquire a plot of ground in a neighborhood you like.

2. Build, if you've toured the housing developments and inspected individual new homes for sale without finding anything that satisfies you.

3. Build, if your desires are highly individual and you have the plan you want, or if you know an architect who can design these desires into a house.

4. Build, if your budget is flexible enough to meet the cost. Usually it costs more to build a house than it does to buy a ready-built one.

Any Style Can Be Yours

What are the principal advantages of building new as opposed to buying new?

Location — You can put the house where you want it.

Style — Any style can be yours if you're willing and able to pay.

Space — If you've owned or rented a house previously, you have a good idea of your minimum space requirements and can provide for them.

Traffic pattern — You know the habits of your family best and can work out the house's traffic pattern accordingly with the architect.

Building materials — You can make your own selection of materials which will give the best service and will look best.

Careful Planning a Must

less waste space generally. Careful planning is the most important factor in getting started.

Do keep your financial status in mind so that you will not go overboard in size and style of the house and its equipment.

Do investigate both the architect and/or the builder before you commit yourself.

Do follow the advice of the architect after you have selected him.

Don't make a nuisance of yourself at the building site. You will slow things down.

Meller sells shoes. His samples are nearly 200 new shoes—all for the left foot.

For the third time in eight years, thieves stole the shoes yesterday, then discarded them—apparently in disgust. Police found them all three times.

Cleaning Lawn Of Accumulation Of Winter Debris Is First Job Of Spring Urges County Agent

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

With the first signs of spring the first outdoors job that can be done is the lawn clean-up program. You should remove trash accumulated from winter winds, and leaves that have blown on the lawn and matted down.

Use care in selection of the rake for spring clean-up. If turf is dense use a flexible toothed leaf rake that will not pull grass plants out of the soil. Every grass plant raked out may be replaced by a weed.

If bare or thin areas are to be reseeded, rake those areas enough to produce some loose soil on the surface. On these areas a rigid toothed garden rake can be used. Reseed areas as soon as they are raked out. When seed is sown, lightly rake the areas to mix the seed in the soil. The areas reseeded can be rolled with a light roller to firm the soil around the seed.

Early Seeding Important

Early seeding is important, so make seeding in March, or earlier, if soil conditions permit. If a seedbed can be prepared and seeded in late February or March the new grass plants will be able to develop into mature plants resistant to the hot dry summer weather. Lawn seeds sown in late May or early June seldom produce mature grass plants. These late seeded grass plants are still seedling plants when the hot dry weather arrives. Weeds, because they grow rapidly at that season, crowd out the seedling grass plants.

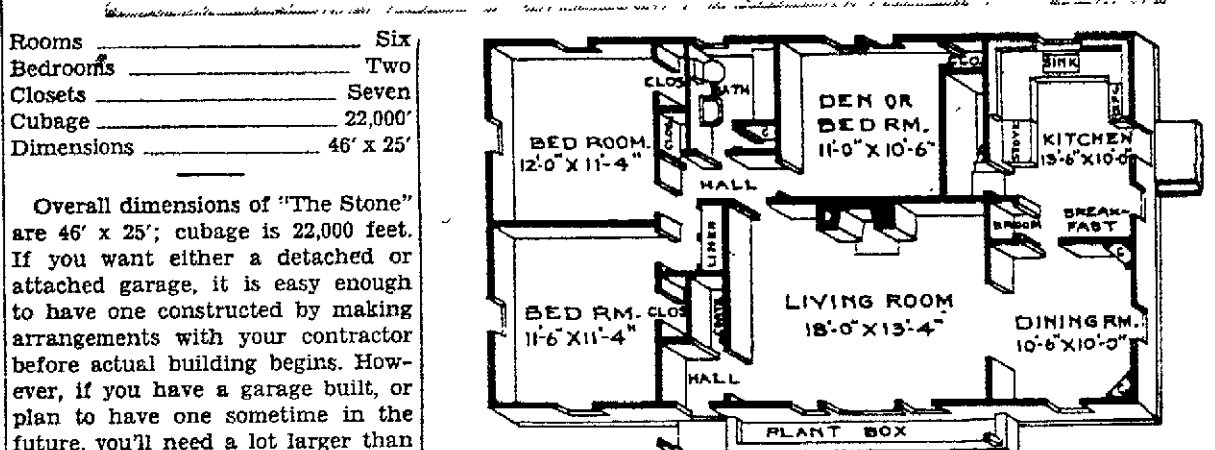

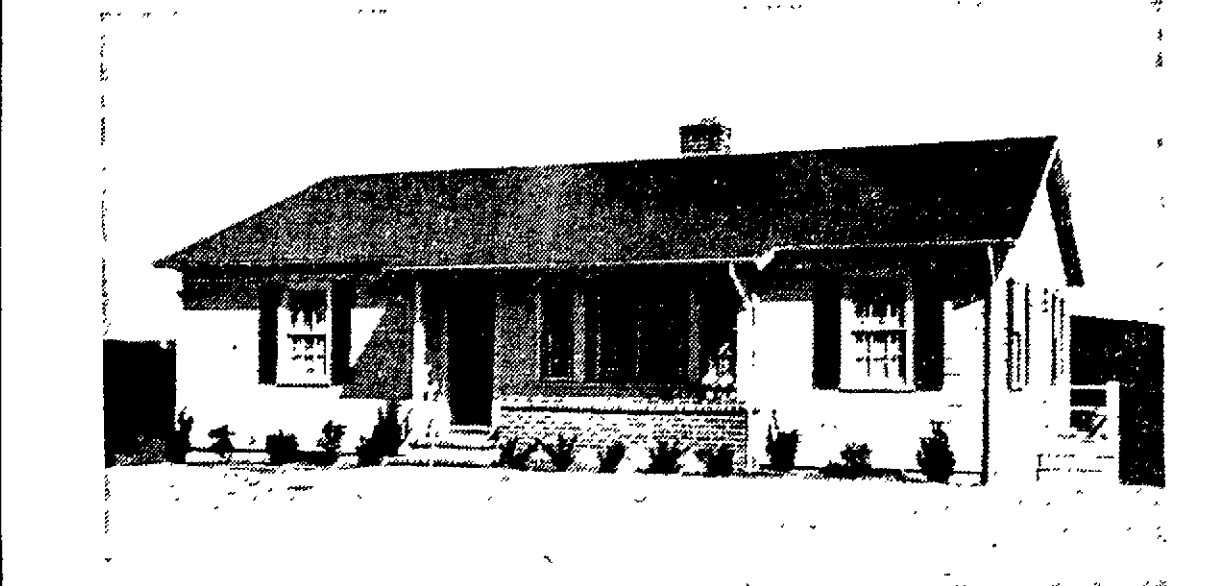

Tree seedlings must be kept moist from the time they leave the nursery until they are planted.

The Stone: Attractive Ranch Style Home

Overall dimensions of "The Stone" are 46' x 25'; cubage is 22,000 feet. If you want either a detached or attached garage, it is easy enough to have one constructed by making arrangements with your contractor before actual building begins. However, if you have a garage built, or plan to have one sometime in the future, you'll need a lot larger than the 70-foot one which could easily accommodate "The Stone" by itself.

Shutters can be used advantageously to dress up the exterior of "The Stone." If you use white shutters or clapboard for the exterior finish of this charmingly modern home, colored blinds will add just the right touch of brightness to the house exterior.

Multi-colored roofing can also be used to give a touch of brightness to the exterior of "The Stone." Low bushes and flowering plants make the most attractive border plantings; simple landscaping is best. To make the front entrance more attractive you can plant rambling roses or any flowers that climb, so they will grow up the trellis work at the left of the front door.

Long Closet

In the entry hall, which leads from the front door to the living room, there is an unusually long coat closet that can easily hold guests' hats, coats, etc., in addition to all your family's stormy weather equipment.

Measuring 18' x 13' 14", the living room actually is a connecting link with the rest of the rooms in "The Stone."

In the front wall, the handsome picture window, flanked by casement windows, looks out on the flowering plants in the plant box and the well-cared-for front lawn. Try to place your house that you'll also be able to reap full benefits, through these windows, of whatever view may be available.

If you so desire, bookshelves could be built in along the back wall from the massive fireplace to the right wall of the living room. Or, if you prefer, bookshelves can be built along the left wall of the room.

One window in the front wall and another in the right wall provide good lighting and cross ventilation in the 10' 6" x 10' dining room. China cabinets built into both the front and back right corners of the room provide ample storage space in which the lady of the house can keep her fine china and glassware.

Breakfast Nook

Connected directly with the dining room, the kitchen contains a spacious breakfast nook and a large broom closet as well as plenty of handy working counters, cupboards and cabinets, arranged in a U-shaped array along the left, back and right walls. The sink is centered in the line of working counters, under the window in the back wall.

Measuring 11' x 10' 6", the den or bedroom has two large windows in the back wall and a good sized closet in the right wall. This room can serve either purpose with equal ease and, if you so desire, can be used as a guest room.

Modernly equipped with both a tub and a shower, the bathroom receives ample light and ventilation from one window in its back wall. This room also boasts a large closet in its right wall—a closet that can be used as a storage place for clean towels and also for bathroom cleaning equipment.

Across the central hall is the unusually large linen closet which can accommodate a good supply of good linen, etc. And without too much pondering any housewife will be able to find good use for the extra closet, also opening on the central hall, just to the right of the door to the back bedroom.

CHAPPAQUA, N. Y. — Winter is practically over; spring is almost here. A look at the thermometer may not indicate this, and there may be feet of snow and inches of ice on the ground and sheathing the trees and shrubs.

But the shortest day of the year has passed, and we are moving into the new season. The plants — which may look deceptively asleep — are coming to life with spring not far away. The time has come when we can even speed up the arrival of warm weather by making a little spring in our houses. Cut a few branches from spring blooming trees and shrubs — forsythia is the easiest but apple branches are lovely, too — and bring them inside for forcing.

Take bud branches which will need pruning anyway, so as not to spoil the shape of the plant. After pruning, make a slanting cut with a sharp knife at the base of the stem (to give the branch as much drinking surface as possible) and place in a container of tepid water. Keep in a dark warmish (not hot) spot for a few days, and then bring them out into the light to blossom.

Thorough Soaking

If you are in a hurry — and have an adequate supply of bathtub — the buds start to swell sooner if the branches can be given a thorough full-length soaking in tepid water.

This forcing process need not be confined merely to flowering shrubs and trees; one may also force delicate pussy willow and handsome red maple branches, to mention but two of many, many possibilities.

The main requirement is that the branches selected be heavily budded — just take a close look. Incidentally, a charming terrarium can be made — in a fish bowl, preferably — by using such material. If small trees are wanted, cut twigs, peel the bark off the ends and crush the ends lightly with a hammer. In the bowl, put a couple of inches of clean sand, sphagnum moss or expanded mica (or any of the sterile growing mediums) to hold the stems upright. Pour in water until it reaches the top of the holding material. Place the arrangement in a dark place until the buds begin to swell — and then bring a bowl of

By FRANK S. ZETTEL
Adams County Farm Agent

Most home grown potatoes, beans and peas become infected with disease that may cause severe losses in the next year's crop. To avoid losses growers should obtain bean and pea seed that has been grown in the drier regions of the West. Such seed should not be infected with anthracnose and bacterial blight or other common diseases. Most home grown potatoes become infested with virus diseases and may also contain other serious disease pathogens. Certified potato seed is usually almost free of any disease that may produce yields, because certified growers remove and destroy disease plants and take other special measures to keep the crop free of disease. The potato crops in Pennsylvania are certified by a state inspector: as complying with the minimum requirements for disease infestation.

The producer of early lambs has more problems than the sheepman who plans lambing season for warm weather. But the selling price of early lambs usually justifies those extra problems, provided they can be solved.

Bad luck during lambing season is all too often the result of poor management and lack of preparation.

Even though sheep can stand considerable cold, they still need a well-bedded barn, free from drafts and damp floors, when lambs are dropped during the winter. It is best to be on hand in person, to insure a good lamb crop. Lambs may need help, or they may become chilled. You can't get a full night's sleep and expect to wear a big lamb crop. Get newly-born lambs dry quickly, and their stomachs full of milk. Put the lamb and its mother in a lambing pen, or claiming pen, made of two hurdles hinged together. There will be fewer disowned lambs, and the ewe can be fed more carefully. The ewe ought to get very little grain for the first two or three days.

"Access To A Creep"

When the lambs reach two weeks of age, give them access to a creep, where you can feed them a simple grain mixture until pasture is ready in the spring. Provide the creep with openings about eight to ten inches wide. Place it in a sunny corner of the barn or shed. Give the lambs all the grain they will eat, and some choice hay that has been saved especially for them.

Check your bees as soon as the weather permits. The prolonged cold spell this winter, after the short honey crops last fall in some areas, will find many bees weak or low on food.

Clean out the opening and see that there is sufficient food. A colony will need at least two frames of food in reserve at all times. Feeding of sugar syrup may be done at any time the bees are flying or when the outside temperature is above 50 degrees F. Dry granulated sugar may be fed at any time, but some moisture must be present for the bees to make efficient use of the sugar. Some beekeepers place just a few drops of water on the edge of the sugar to give the bees a start.

Stimulating feeding is a big help in building a strong colony for the early honey flows from locust and tulip poplar as well as for pollination. Start this feeding about six weeks before the bees are needed or about the middle of March. Use a sugar syrup made up of two parts sugar to one part water by volume. This feeding is done whether or not the colony has food.

Check colonies which may be dead. If the colony has died of disease, there is a good possibility of spreading the disease through robbing. Either close these colonies or carry them into a close building. Clean the diseased equipment and destroy the combs.

Have extra equipment ready; early brood rearing and very early minor honey flows will cause the colony to become crowded and, possibly, to swarm.

DEATH THREAT IS REVEALED IN ACTRESS CASE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Now the report of a death threat has entered into the confusing Marie McDonald kidnap case.

Los Angeles officers said here Thursday night the curvaceous 34-year-old screen actress told them her claim Wednesday that her estranged husband, millionaire Harry Karl, engineered the kidnapping came after she had received an anonymous telephone call. She said it was from a man who referred to the kidnapping and threatened her life.

"Consistent" Charges

After a long questioning period, Los Angeles Detective Lt. Herman Zander said Miss McDonald's charges against her husband "appear to be consistent" with her first story of the kidnapping.

It was a little more than a year ago that the blonde Miss McDonald reported she had been kidnapped by two men, held captive for 24 hours and then released on the desert 150 miles from her Encino, Calif., home.

A grand jury investigation at which Miss McDonald testified failed to bring any charges.

Wednesday, Miss McDonald, currently appearing in a northern Kentucky night club, told a press conference Karl engineered the kidnapping.

May Take Lie Tests

Detective Chief Thad Brown of Los Angeles said it was the first time he had ever heard the story and ent two officers here.

Zander said he and Julian Bodgett of the Los Angeles prosecutor's office were told by Miss McDonald that she didn't mention Karl in her previous story "because he implored her not to and because of her desire to protect the children."

At Los Angeles, Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson has invited both Karl and Miss McDonald to take lie detector tests.

Miss McDonald made the accusations against Karl a day after he had said he was asking her to divorce him and that he was in love with another woman.

Karl called Miss McDonald's charges "absurd and ridiculous" and "a poor way to get publicity."

FIND RELATIVES OF AILING MAN

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A 24-hour search by telephone, telegraph, newspaper story and radio and television appeals for relatives of a 31-year-old newspaperman critically ill ended Friday with location of a brother.

Matthew J. O'Donnell, lay in Pottstown Hospital suffering from a heart attack while his co-workers on the Pottstown Mercury sought to find him.

Eventually, a woman, identified as Mrs. Vincent of Cambridge, Ohio, heard a radio appeal. She called the station saying she was a cousin of O'Donnell. Further inquiries led authorities to Edwin O'Donnell, a brother of Matthew, in Dravosburg, Pa.

Edwin said he could come to Pottstown and notify the rest of the family.

The Mercury's managing editor, Robert Boyle, said O'Donnell came to the newspaper a few months ago after completing nine years Army service.

MAY SEEK BOND MONEY TO COVER EMBEZZLEMENT

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The solicitor for the Collingdale School Board has proposed appointment of a special counsel for the board to consider possible legal action against its treasurer and secretary.

Board Solicitor Robert W. Beatty said Thursday night he had recommended appointment of the special counsel to determine whether suit should be brought against James D. McBride, treasurer and Charles P. Schmied, secretary. The two held office during the time in which former school Supt. Faber E. Stengle allegedly embezzled more than $125,000 from school accounts.

Beatty said the purpose of a suit would be to secure bond payments placed on both board officials. The board will consider the Beatty request next week.

Woman Is Involved
Meanwhile, Howard Richard, attorney for a Collingdale citizens committee, said his group definitely will file suit of the board didn't. Also involved in any legal action, Richard said, would be Mrs. Sara B. Toren, who was treasurer for about 10 years before McBride assumed the post early last year.

Richard said the basis for his case is a contention that the three officers failed to fulfill all their duties during the time the now ousted Stengle, allegedly was juggling the school accounts—a period of about 10 years.

The Delaware County district attorney's office said Thursday it was checking to determine if misfeasance charges should be brought against McBride, Schmied and Mrs. Toren.

ARMY CHARGES THREE MEN WITH MISTREATMENT

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The U. S. Army Friday formally charged two officers and a sergeant with mistreating a Korean boy who was beaten, tarred and put into a small, nail-studded box after he was caught stealing.

The boy, 14-year-old Kim Choon II, was discovered whimpering in the box Feb. 14 after being flown in a helicopter from the Ascom maintenance center, where he was caught, to Uijongbu 25 miles away.

The incident raised a storm of protest in South Korea and heightened the campaign for a status-of-forces treaty which would allow Korean courts to try U. S. servicemen.

Three Are Charged

Charges were filed against Maj. Thomas G. James, 40, Plymouth, Pa.; Capt. Marvin E. Kemp, 34, Kilmichael, Miss., and Sgt. Robert E. Weidensaul, 32, Pottstown, Pa.

Date for their court-martial will be set after further investigation of the charges.

All three were charged with assaulting Kim and stuffing him into the box. The specifications said Weidensaul cut off Kim's hair, and Kemp struck the lad with a stick and tarred his head.

James, who was relieved of command of his unit, the 8th Army Aircraft Maintenance Center, and transferred to another outfit after the case came to light, March 1, also was charged with disobeying orders by transporting a civilian in a military helicopter.

The major and the captain were further accused of conduct unbecoming to an officer and a gentleman.

States, he is a supporter of a foreign power, espousing an alien line of thought. He is a conspirator against his country.

"The Communist is thinking in terms of now, in your lifetime. Remember that within four decades communism, as a state power, has spread through roughly 40 per cent of the world's population and 25 per cent of the earth's surface. . . . Communists have never won over a country by a free election, and have never hesitated to shed blood if this would best serve their purposes.

"In recent years there has been a tendency to discount the menace of domestic Communists solely because of a decline in party membership. In fact, some have gone so far as to say, '... the party ... is almost over.' Let's examine that statement."

"In 1922, when Communist party membership reached 124,000, William Z. Foster said, '... We no longer measure the importance of revolutionary organizations by size. In some places where there are only one or two men, more results are obtained than where they have larger organizations. . . .'

"This has been the Communist line down through the years. Foster in 1951 stated, 'Communist strength ... cannot be measured even approximately by statistics. . . . The Communist parties' strength runs far beyond all formal measurements. . . .'

"This picture of a Communist America is not overdrawn. Here are the words of William Z. Foster:

"Under the dictatorship of the capitalist parties — Republican, Democratic, Progressive, Socialist, etc. — will be liquidated, the Communist party functioning alone as the party of the toiling masses. Likewise, will be dissolved all other organizations that are political props of the bourgeois rule, including chambers of commerce, employers' associations, Rotary clubs, American Legion, YMCA and such fraternal orders as the Masons, Odd Fellows, Elks, Knights of Columbus, etc.

"Under this schedule many Americans are eligible for liquidation not once but several times, depending on their present freely chosen affiliations and social interests.

"When you read such reports, do not think of them as something happening in a far-off land. Remember, always, that 'it could happen here' and that there are thousands of people in this country now working in secret to make it happen here. 'But also, thank God, there are millions of Americans who oppose them. It we open our eyes, inform ourselves, and work together, we can keep our country free.'"

We urge you to read "Masters of Deceit."

HARRISBURG (AP) — John H. Bream, Harrisburg attorney, switched his registration from Republican to Democrat and said Friday he will be a candidate for Congress on the Democratic ticket from his district.

Bream said he switched party affiliation "because of the obvious lack of leadership by the Republican national administration."

He said he has been given the Democratic organization support to run on the party slate for the Congressional seat now held by Walter M. Mumma (R-Pa). Mumma said he will seek a fifth term.

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Charles E. Whiting, 22, of Media, convicted of first degree murder in October, 1956, was sentenced Friday to life imprisonment.

Whiting was convicted of killing Juan C. Otero, 66, who was found stabbed six times in his tailor shop in Ardmore in June, 1956.

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Capitol Building is going to be cleaned up.

The State Property and Supplies Department Thursday awarded a $208,972 contract to clean the exterior of the capitol. The project — which is to be completed by the end of November — also includes renovation and alteration of elevator housings and of the roof and skylights. The work will be done by the John Stapf Corp., Harrisburg.

Officer Tickets Eight Patrolmen

HOBOKEN, N.J. (AP) — Don't invite patrolman Frank Moracco to the same party with eight of his fellow officers. He ticketed their cars yesterday for over parking.

Police Capt. Edward J. Kearns had just told his men to push a drive against motorists who fail to feed parking meters after time has run out. Moracco took the pep talk to heart.

Kearns, hearing about the tickets issued to eight of his men, said: "They'll pay the fines just like any ordinary citizen."

Youngster Gives Vet Cops Trouble

CHICAGO (AP) — Veteran Chicago police had a tough time with Carl Marts last night after he was picked up wandering along La Salle street.

Taken to the police station, Marts ripped out drawers from filing cabinets and tore up messages on the police teletype machine. Marts, who is 3½ years old, also smeared chocolate ice cream on Sgt. Harry Lyons uniform.

The boy's mother reclaimed him. She said he wandered to the street from the family's basement apartment.

Blaze Extinguished With Cup Of Water

CHICAGO (AP) — Sixteen firemen armed with extinguishers and axes rushed to a corner of City Hall yesterday when smoke filled the area. They arrived too late.

Eugene Powers, 39, a clerk, already had snuffed the blaze — with a cup of water.

Destroyed was a bucket of sawdust, used by janitors for sweeping floors. Someone had dropped a cigarette in the bucket, apparently thinking it was sand.

Damage was estimated at between three and four cents.

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — A U. S. Air Force pilot said Friday he did not know whether ground fire that hit a comrade's F86 jet near the demilitarized zone came from Communist or friendly territory.

Lt. Ronald E. Martin of Rock Hill, Mo., said to his knowledge, neither plane was close enough to be hit by Communist fire.

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Bulganin in a fourth message to President Eisenhower released here Friday, appealed again for an East-West summit conference but made no major new proposals to break the deadlock.

CHURCH SEEKS PEACE IN CUBA

HAVANA (AP) — A "National Conciliation Committee" was set up Thursday night with the backing of the Roman Catholic Church to work for peace in Cuba.

The committee, made up of two former vice presidents, a banker and a priest, said in a statement it plans to conduct "the necessary interviews with the government and with all the opposition groups to get their respective points of view."

The statement did not say whether talks were planned with Fidel Castro's rebels, whom President Fulgencio Batista's government regards as outlaws rather than legitimate political opponents.

Rejected Church Appeal

The two political figures on the conciliation committee are Dr. Gustavo Cuervo Rubio, vice president in Batista's first government, and Dr. Raul de Cardena, vice president under Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau is running against Batista's candidate in the June 1 presidential elections.

Batista had rejected a church appeal to include opposition parties in his government. A new Cabinet, named so that members of the last government could campaign for the election, was sworn in Thursday. Opposition parties said the new Cabinet consists of Batista supporters although many of its members are businessmen with no political record.

The new Cabinet promised to continue the fight against Castro's guerrillas and to insure an honest election.

WAIT ON SUN TO LAUNCH ROCKET

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Navy tinkered with its Vanguard satellite test rocket today in a launching race with the sun. So long as the sun was up the Navy by its own restrictions still had a chance to launch its fourth Vanguard test vehicle and put into orbit the 3½-pound moon in the Vanguard's nose.

But yesterday the Navy had to postpone a scheduled Vanguard test while it tended to what it called minor technical troubles and waited for the weather.

The combination of those two elements took up too much daylight and the Navy countdown was running over into night. So it was decided to wait.

Why the Navy has picked daylight hours only for this test was not known.

The 72-foot Vanguard has been plagued by bad weather in recent weeks. Even last night it was drenched by repeated rains on its launching pad.

Two previous Vanguard firings were not successful. A Vanguard blew up on its pad after rising four feet in a launch attempt Dec. 6. Another Vanguard broke in half and was destroyed Feb. 5 after functioning well to about 20,000 feet.

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — A 59-year-old former assistant cashier at the Monroe County National Bank at East Stroudsburg has been sentenced to three years in prison for embezzling $46,516 from the bank. Sentenced yesterday was Roy W. Riley, who was accused of making false entries in bank records and keeping the funds.

James MARLOW Reports

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trust-worthy, agreeable, inoffensive mediocrity could become vice president.

That might be the result if the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement on how a vice president takes over from an ailing president becomes the rule — for lack of any other solution — for future presidents and vice presidents.

It's easy to see how future presidential candidates would want as their No. 2 man on the ticket an individual whose chief qualification for the job was not so much ability but trustworthiness and a gift for me-too-ism.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon — just because the Constitution doesn't spell out how a vice president takes over from a disabled president — sought to avoid possible future confusion by reaching this agreement.

Nixon Would Take Over

If Eisenhower becomes unable to carry out his duties Nixon will decide whether he should take them over. Under the agreement Nixon can — but he's free to suit himself — consult others before deciding to become acting president.

If Eisenhower recovers he — not Nixon — will decide whether he's able to resume his job.

This kind of arrangement is all right for Eisenhower and Nixon. They trust each other. Eisenhower has confidence in Nixon's ability. So, apparently, does the Republican party or it wouldn't have picked him twice for the vice presidency.

The two men feel they can, under their agreement, handle the problem of an Eisenhower disability. They have made it plain they intend it to apply only to them.

Unwritten Rule

But it may well become an unwritten rule for his future unless Congress — by proposing a constitutional amendment — puts some other arrangement into national law. One future point in particular could stand clearing up in an amendment. It's this:

Should a vice president be free to decide when a president is too disabled to do his duties or should the decision be made by a group of government officials or in some other way?

The Eisenhower administration wants a constitutional amendment and has banged away at Congress to propose one.

Congress Ignores Issue

But Congress has been beating its gums on this whole question and has done nothing. There's a good chance it will continue doing nothing and that, without their intending it so, the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement will become a rule.

Suppose that, for lack of constitutional clarification, this agreement becomes the formula for the future. Then, with that in mind, this could happen at a political convention:

A man chosen to be a party's presidential candidate might not want as his vice-presidential running mate a man he feared might at some future time try to move in on him during a period of illness and take over the presidency.

Rather, he might want as his No. 2 man one whose chief qualification was trustworthiness — one who agreed with him but who might be far less qualified than an individual who, while trustworthy, did not see eye to eye with him on everything.

It's easy to see why: a vice president who disagreed with a president's programs might start to change them if, because of a presidential disability, he became acting president.

DEATH THREAT IS REVEALED IN ACTRESS CASE

CINCINNATI (AP) — Now the report of a death threat has entered into the confusing Marie McDonald kidnap case.

Los Angeles officers said here Thursday night the curvaceous 34-year-old screen actress told them her claim Wednesday that her estranged husband, millionaire Harry Karl, engineered the kidnapping came after she had received an anonymous telephone call. She said it was from a man who referred to the kidnapping and threatened her life.

"Consistent" Charges

After a long questioning period, Los Angeles Detective Lt. Herman Zander said Miss McDonald's charges against her husband "appear to be consistent" with her first story of the kidnapping.

It was a little more than a year ago that the blonde Miss McDonald reported she had been kidnapped by two men, held captive for 24 hours and then released on the desert 150 miles from her Encino, Calif., home.

A grand jury investigation at which Miss McDonald testified failed to bring any charges.

Wednesday, Miss McDonald, currently appearing in a northern Kentucky night club, told a press conference Karl engineered the kidnapping.

May Take Life Tests

Detective Chief Thad Brown of Los Angeles said it was the first time he had ever heard the story and sent two officers here.

Zander said he and Julian Bodgett of the Los Angeles prosecutor's office were told by Miss McDonald that she didn't mention Karl in her previous story "because he implored her not to and because of her desire to protect the children."

At Los Angeles, Dist. Atty. William B. McKesson has invited both Karl and Miss McDonald to take lie detector tests.

Miss McDonald made the accusations against Karl a day after he had said he was asking her to divorce him and that he was in love with another woman.

Karl called Miss McDonald's charges "absurd and ridiculous" and "a poor way to get publicity."

MAY SEEK BOND MONEY TO COVER EMBEZZLEMENT

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The solicitor for the Collingdale School Board has proposed appointment of a special counsel for the board to consider possible legal action against its treasurer and secretary.

Board Solicitor Robert W. Beatty said Thursday night he had recommended appointment of the special counsel to determine whether suit should be brought against James D. McBride, treasurer and Charles F. Schmied, secretary.

The two held office during the time in which former school Supt. Faber E. Stengle allegedly embezzled more than $125,000 from school accounts.

Beatty said the purpose of a suit would be to secure bond payments placed on both board officials. The board will consider the Beatty request next week.

Woman Is Involved

Meanwhile, Howard Richard, attorney for a Collingdale citizens committee, said his group definitely will file suit of the board didn't. Also involved in any legal action, Richard said, would be Mrs. Sara B. Torens who was treasurer for about 10 years before McBride assumed the post early last year.

Richard said the basis for his case is a contention that the three officers failed to fulfill all their duties during the time the now ousted Stengle, allegedly was juggling the school accounts—a period of about 10 years.

The Delaware County district attorney's office said Thursday it was checking to determine if misfeasance charges should be brought against McBride, Schmied and Mrs. Torens.

ARMY CHARGES THREE MEN WITH MISTREATMENT

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — The U. S. Army Friday formally charged two officers and a sergeant with mistreating a Korean boy who was beaten, tarred and put into a small, nail-studded box after he was caught stealing.

The boy, 14-year-old Kim Choon II, was discovered whimpering in the box Feb. 14 after being flown in a helicopter from the Ascom maintenance center, where he was caught, to Uijongbu 25 miles away.

The incident raised a storm of protest in South Korea and heightened the campaign for a status-of-forces treaty which would allow Korean courts to try U. S. servicemen.

All three were charged with assaulting Kim and stuffing him into the box. The specifications said Weidensaul cut off Kim's hair, and Kemp struck the lad with a stick and tarred his head.

James, who was relieved of command of his unit, the 8th Army Aircraft Maintenance Center, and transferred to another outfit after the case came to light, March 1, also was charged with disobeying orders by transporting a civilian in a military helicopter.

"The Communist is thinking in terms of now, in your lifetime. Remember that within four decades communism, as a state power, has spread through roughly 40 per cent of the world's population and 25 per cent of the earth's surface. . . . Communists have never won over a country by a free election, and have never hesitated to shed blood if this would best serve their purposes.

"In recent years there has been a tendency to discount the menace of domestic Communists solely because of a decline in party membership. In fact, some have gone so far as to say, '... the party ... is almost over.' Let's examine that statement."

"In 1922, when Communist party membership reached 12,400, William Z. Foster said, '... We no longer measure the importance of revolutionary organizations by size. In some places where there are only one or two men, more results are obtained than where they have larger organizations. . . .'

"This has been the Communist line down through the years. Foster in 1951 stated, 'Communist strength ... cannot be measured even approximately by statistics. . . . The Communist parties' strength runs far beyond all formal measurements. . . .'

CHURCH SEEKS PEACE IN CUBA

HAVANA (AP) — A "National Conciliation Committee" was set up Thursday night with the backing of the Roman Catholic Church to work for peace in Cuba.

The committee, made up of two former vice presidents, a banker and a priest, said in a statement it plans to conduct "the necessary interviews with the government and with all the opposition groups to get their respective points of view."

The statement did not say whether talks were planned with Fidel Castro's rebels, whom President Fulgencio Batista's government regards as outlaws rather than legitimate political opponents.

Rejected Church Appeal

The two political figures on the conciliation committee are Dr. Gustavo Cuervo Rubio, vice president in Batista's first government, and Dr. Raul de Cardena, vice president under Ramon Grau San Martin. Grau is running against Batista's candidate in the June 1 presidential elections.

Batista had rejected a church appeal to include opposition parties in his government. A new Cabinet, named so that members of the last government could campaign for the election, was sworn in Thursday. Opposition parties said the new Cabinet consists of Batista supporters although many of its members are businessmen with no political record.

The new Cabinet promised to continue the fight against Castro's guerrillas and to insure an honest election.

James MARLOW Reports

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A trustworthy, agreeable, inoffensive mediocrity could become vice president.

That might be the result if the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement on how a vice president takes over from an ailing president becomes the rule — for lack of any other solution — for future presidents and vice presidents.

It's easy to see how future presidential candidates would want a their No. 2 man on the ticket an individual whose chief qualification for the job was not so much ability but trustworthiness and a gift for me-too-ism.

President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon — just because the Constitution doesn't spell out how a vice president takes over from a disabled president — sought to avoid possible future confusion by reaching this agreement.

Nixon Would Take Over

If Eisenhower becomes unable to carry out his duties Nixon will decide whether he should take them over. Under the agreement Nixon can — but he's free to suit himself — consult others before deciding to become acting president.

If Eisenhower recovers he — not Nixon — will decide whether he's able to resume his job.

This kind of arrangement is all right for Eisenhower and Nixon. They trust each other. Eisenhower has confidence in Nixon's ability. So, apparently, does the Republican party or it wouldn't have picked him twice for the vice presidency.

The two men feel they can, under their agreement, handle the problem of an Eisenhower disability. They have made it plain they intend it to apply only to them.

Unwritten Rule

But it may well become an unwritten rule for his future unless Congress — by proposing a constitutional amendment — puts some other arrangement into national law. One future point in particular could stand clearing up in an amendment. It's this:

Should a vice president be free to decide when a president is too disabled to do his duties or should the decision be made by a group of government officials or in some other way?

The Eisenhower administration wants a constitutional amendment and has banged away at Congress to propose one.

Congress Ignores Issue

But Congress has been beating its gums on this whole question and has done nothing. There's a good chance it will continue doing nothing and that, without their intending it so, the Eisenhower-Nixon agreement will become a rule.

Suppose that, for lack of constitutional clarification, this agreement becomes the formula for the future. Then, with that in mind, this could happen at a political convention:

A man chosen to be a party's presidential candidate might not want as his vice-presidential running mate a man he feared might at some future time try to move in on him during a period of illness and take over the presidency.

Rather, he might want as his No. 2 man one whose chief qualification was trustworthiness — one who agreed with him but who might be far less qualified than an individual who, while trustworthy, did not see eye to eye with him on everything.

It's easy to see why: a vice president who disagreed with a president's programs might start to change them if, because of a presidential disability, he became acting president.

NASSER OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR ARAB MASTERY

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser has opened his battle for complete mastery of the Arab East.

Charges that King Saud of Saudi Arabia plotted against Nasser and his United Arab Republic — and the manner in which the charges were made — indicate there will be no quarter given and none expected in this developing war between two sets of Arab rulers.

The instrument for Nasser's initial attack was Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj, the Syrian army's young, bulky, blue-jacketed chief of intelligence, who claims he was offered a huge bribe to see to it that Nasser died in an attack on his plane.

Charges Fantastic

The charges are fantastic. It is asking the outside world to swallow a great deal to suppose that so shrewd a leader as Saud would attempt to subvert Serraj, of all people. Serraj is known throughout the Arab East for his fanatical devotion to Nasser and the extremes of Arab nationalism.

It hardly matters whether a plot existed or not. (Saudi Arabia rejected the charges.) The point is that Nasser's propaganda machine, now dovetailed with that of the Syrians in the new United Arab Republic, has opened the most dangerous of attacks on its foes in the Arab East — the rulers of Jordan, Iraq and Saudi Arabia. All three stand in the way of Nasser's vaulting ambitions.

The attack is a daring one in a place like the Arab East. Saud is custodian of the two holiest shrines of Islam, Mecca and Medina, and as such has claim to being the spiritual leader of all Arab Moslems.

Many Embroiled

But Saud resisted Nasser's overtures for a united Arab front. So have Kings Hussein of Jordan and Faisal of Iraq. Now Nasser will attempt to build severe popular pressures under the kings by fanning the glowing embers of Arab nationalism into flaming violence.

Most of the Arab world is now embroiled in the squabble, all the way from Iraq across North Africa to Tunis, where pro-Western President Habib Bourguiba Bourguiba complains that Nasser has been plotting his assassination.

Nasser apparently wants no rivals at all. He tried blandishments, and that didn't work. Now he appears ready to ram his "liberation" down the throats of the other rulers. He cannot do that without invoking violence which would endanger no only Middle East peace, but the peace of the whole world.

PERRY COUNTY MAY LOSE AID

HARRISBURG (AP) — Perry County was threatened today with loss of all state reimbursement during the 1957-58 biennium for child welfare services.

Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro made the threat Thursday night after meeting with county officials to discuss his dissatisfaction with its child welfare services.

He urged "interested citizens in the community" to "awaken the commissioners to their responsibility of developing a program that will furnish the services needs in that county."

Meeting with Shapiro were Commissioner Glenn E. Smith of Loyalsock, Mrs. Helen Meyers, part-time child welfare worker, and Mrs. L. W. Bell of Duncannon. Commissioners Lawrence G. Mohler of New Bloomfield and Hoyd Summy of Millerstown did not attend.

Perry County received a $1,216.55 imbursement for child welfare during the 1955-57 biennium.

RESIGNATION OF M'BRIDE ASKED

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Veterans of Foreign Wars want Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride to resign, claiming he holds a "public be damned attitude" in attempting to win unemployment compensation for a steelworker who pleaded the fifth amendment.

McBride revealed Tuesday he would seek a court reversal of a ruling by the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review denying $1,050 in such compensation to the steelworker.

The steelworker pleaded the 5th Amendment when questioned about communism before a U.S. Senate committee.

In a statement issued Thursday, the VPW called on McBride "to fulfill the obligations of his office or in good conscience or resign."

"It charged McBride's action was greeted with 'delight by the Communists and their sympathizers.'"

Uses Reverse Start; Sellout In Short Stay

NEW YORK (AP) — Noel Coward switched show business tradition by making Broadway a tryout stop for his out-of-town tour.

Plays usually arrive on the Great White Way after preliminary testing on the road, but Coward reversed things because of plans to alternate performances of two of his shows, "Present Laughter" and "Nude With Violin" during cross-country travels.

"Nude with Violin," a sellout during its limited engagement here, brought Coward back to Broadway for the first time in 25 years.

The deal was cancelled following a wave of public protests.

It stated that while Upper Darby Solicitor Paul Sand was bargaining for the site Ostroff told him "the land was not for sale at any price and that it was now worth a fortune because of Philadelphia's ban on burning of trash."

COST OF LIVING BOOST DENIED BY ECONOMIST

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 7: — The cost of living didn't go up after all, according to Carlos Campbell, economist, who is also executive secretary of the National Canners Association.

In a statement issued Friday Campbell took issue with last week's reporting of the Bureau of Labor Statistics monthly Cost-of-Living Index. "It isn't often that newspapers, TV and radio commentators make the same error in reporting news but nearly all of them declared erroneously that the cost of living had increased 3.5 per cent over last year."

"What really happened was that the price of some food items advanced precipitously, chief among them the fresh vegetables obtained at this season of the year from Florida. Heavy freezes in that state destroyed this supply and prices soared to a record level," he stated.

Spend Fewer Dollars

But Campbell contends that you don't measure cost of living by price changes alone. "It does not follow that the housewife pays out more money for her food needs merely because the prices of a few items increase, particularly when other foods, equally nutritious and desirable, did not increase measurably in price. In recent months canned vegetables, prices of which remain relatively stable, have replaced a large part of the fresh vegetable items in the housewife's food basket. The shopper is thus supplying the vegetable needs of her family for fewer dollars."

This goes on all the time, Campbell said, even when the relationship between fresh and canned is normal. If the price of the fresh item goes up by only a small percentage there is little change in the comparative quantities purchased in the two forms. If, however, the price of the fresh item goes up as much as was reported last week, the housewife turns to the canned product.

Cites U. S. Report

Evidence of this tendency is contained in the February, 1958, issue of the National Food Situation published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture which shows that per capita consumption of fresh vegetables has declined from 120.4 pounds during the 1947-49 base period to 106 pounds for the year 1957. Canned vegetables during this same period increased from 39.2 pounds to 43.5 pounds.

Fresh vegetables that cost a dollar during the 1947-49 base period were selling at prices about one-third higher after the Florida freeze, but the canned vegetables which cost the housewife a dollar in the base period were selling at only $1.05 last month.

"Thus her outlay of money for that particular vegetable is actually less than it was before the price of the fresh went up. Consequently, the cost of food may actually have gone down rather than up as a result of the Florida freeze," Campbell asserts.

Fined For Making A U-Turn On Bridge

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Traffic Judge James Demopolos offered advice to a young college student who was charged with making a U-turn on a bridge so he could pick up a pretty girl. "The trick is not to make a U-turn on the bridge," Demopolos said. "Just drive to the end of the bridge and wait for her. There are only two ways a pretty girl can get off a bridge. The lesson cost the student $7."

NASSER OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR ARAB MASTERY

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

Gamal Abdel Nasser has opened his battle for complete mastery of the Arab East.

Charges that King Saud of Saudi Arabia plotted against Nasser and his United Arab Republic — and the manner in which the charges were made — indicate there will be no quarter given and none expected in this developing war between two sets of Arab rulers.

The instrument for Nasser's mutual attack was Lt. Col. Abdul Hamid Serraj, the Syrian army's young, bulky, blue-jawed chief of intelligence, who claims he was offered a huge bribe to see to it that Nasser died in an attack on his plane.

Charges Fantastic

The charges are fantastic. It is asking the outside world to swallow a great deal to suppose that so shrewd a leader as Saud would attempt to subvert Serraj, of all people. Serraj is known throughout the Arab East for his fanatical devotion to Nasser and the extremes of Arab nationalism.

It hardly matters whether a plot existed or not. (Saudi Arabia rejected the charges.) The point is that Nasser's propaganda machine, now dovetailed with that of the Syrians in the new United Arab Republic, has opened the most dangerous of attacks on its foes in the Arab East — the rulers of Jordan, Iraq and Saudi Arabia. All three stand in the way of Nasser's vaulting ambitions.

The attack is a daring one in a place like the Arab East. Saud is custodian of the two holiest shrines of Islam, Mecca and Medina, and as such has claim to being the spiritual leader of all Arab Moslems.

Many Embroiled

But Saud resisted Nasser's overtures for a united Arab front. So have Kings Hussein of Jordan and Faisal of Iraq. Now Nasser will attempt to build severe popular pressures under the kings by fanning the glowing embers of Arab nationalism into flaming violence.

Most of the Arab world is now embroiled in the squabble, all the way from Iraq across North Africa to Tunis, where pro-Western President Habib Bourguiba Bourguiba complains that Nasser has been plotting his assassination.

Nasser apparently wants no rivals at all. He tried blandishments, and that didn't work. Now he appears ready to ram his "liberation" down the throats of the other rulers. He cannot do that without invoking violence which would endanger not only Middle East peace, but the peace of the whole world.

PERRY COUNTY MAY LOSE AID

HARRISBURG (AP)—Perry County was threatened today with loss of all state reimbursement during the 1957-58 biennium for child welfare programs.

Welfare Secretary Harry Shapiro made the threat Thursday night after meeting with county officials to discuss his dissatisfaction with its child welfare services.

He urged "interested citizens in the community" to "awaken the commissioners to their responsibility of developing a program that will furnish the services needs in that county."

Meeting with Shapiro were Commissioner Glenn E. Smith of Loysville, Mrs. Helen Meyers, part-time child welfare worker, and Mrs. L. W. Bell of Duncannon. Commissioners Lawrence G. Mohler of New Bloomfield and Hoyd Summy of Millertown did not attend.

Perry County received a $1,216.55 reimbursement for child welfare during the 1955-57 biennium.

RESIGNATION OF M'BRIDE ASKED

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The Veterans of Foreign Wars want Atty. Gen. Thomas D. McBride to resign, claiming he holds a "public or damaged attitude" in attempting to win unemployment compensation for a steelworker who pleaded the fifth amendment.

McBride revealed Tuesday he would seek a court reversal of a ruling by the State Unemployment Compensation Board of Review denying $1,030 in such compensation to the steelworker.

The steelworker pleaded the fifth amendment when questioned about communism before a U.S. Senate committee.

In a statement issued Thursday, the VFW called on McBride "to fulfill the obligations of his office or in good conscience or resign."

"I charged McBride's action was greeted with 'delight by the Communists and their sympathizers,'" the statement said.

BLAME LAWYER IN DARBY DEAL

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — Atty. Isidor Ostroff of Philadelphia has been blamed at least partially — for skyrocketing Upper Darby Township's incinerator site deal to $1,600,000.

Upper Darby's board of commissioners, replying to a taxpayer's action seeking their ouster, declared it was Ostroff who told them the land was not for sale because it was worth a fortune.

The accusation was made in a 15-page document filed Thursday with the Quarter Sessions Court here.

It stated that while Upper Darby Solicitor Paul Sand was bargaining for the site Ostroff told him "the land was not for sale at any price and that it was now worth a fortune because of Philadelphia's ban on burning of trash."

Ostroff represented Max A. Rosenberg, Philadelphia real estate dealer. Rosenberg made the transaction with Upper Darby, calling for payment of $1,600,000 over a span of 40 years on a $40,000 investment.

The deal was cancelled following a wave of public protests.

Uses Reverse Start; Sellout In Short Stay

NEW YORK (AP) — Noel Coward switched show business tradition by making Broadway a trout stop for his out-of-town tour.

Plays usually arrive on the Great White Way after preliminary testing on the road, but Coward reversed things because of plans to alternate performances of two of his shows, "Present Laughter" and "Nude with Violin" during cross-country travels.

"Nude with Violin" a sellout during its limited engagement here, brought Coward back to Broadway for the first time in 25 years.

COST OF LIVING BOOST DENIED BY ECONOMIST

WASHINGTON, D. C. March 7: — The cost of living didn't go up after all, according to Carlos Campbell, economist, who is also executive secretary of the National Cannery Association.

In a statement issued Friday Campbell took issue with last week's reporting of the Bureau of Labor Statistics monthly Cost-of-Living Index. "It isn't often that newspapers, TV and radio commentators make the same error in reporting news but nearly all of them declared erroneously that the cost of living had increased 3.5 per cent over last year.

"What really happened was that the price of some food items advanced precipitously, chief among them the fresh vegetables obtained at this season of the year from Florida. Heavy freezes in that state destroyed this supply and prices soared to a record level," he stated.

Spend Fewer Dollars

But, Campbell contends that you don't measure cost of living by price changes alone. "It does not follow that the housewife pays out more money for her food needs merely because the prices of a few items increase, particularly when other foods, equally nutritious and desirable, did not increase measurably in price. In recent months canned vegetables, prices of which remain relatively stable, have replaced a large part of the fresh vegetable items in the housewife's food basket. The shopkeeper is thus supplying the vegetable needs of her family for fewer dollars."

This goes on all the time, Campbell said, even when the relationship between fresh and canned is normal. If the price of the fresh item goes up by only a small percentage there is little change in the comparative quantities purchased in the two forms. If, however, the price of the fresh item goes up as much as was reported last week, the housewife turns to the canned product.

Cites U. S. Report

Evidence of this tendency is contained in the February, 1958, issue of the National Food Situation published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture which shows that per capita consumption of fresh vegetables has declined from 120.4 pounds during the 1947-49 base period to 106 pounds for the year 1957. Canned vegetables during this same period increased from 39.2 pounds to 43.5 pounds.

Fresh vegetables that cost a dollar during the 1947-49 base period were selling at prices about one-third higher after the Florida freeze, but the canned vegetables which cost the housewife a dollar in the base period were selling at only $1.06 last month.

"Thus her outlay of money for that particular vegetable is actually less than it was before the price of the fresh went up. Consequently, the cost of food may actually have gone down rather than up as a result of the Florida freeze," Campbell asserts.

2 Boys Fall Thru Ice And Drown

SELINGROVE, Pa. (AP) — Two boys fell through the ice of Rolling Green Park Lake and drowned Thursday. Authorities said the boys were taking a shortcut across the lake, two miles north of here.

The bodies of the victims, Daniel Kenneth Yeager, 9, and Ricky Gene Valentine, 6, both of Selingrove R. 2, were recovered about 45 minutes later.

Daniel's brother, Barry, was accompanying the boys and summoned help. The boys were about 70 feet from shore when the ice gave way.

FOOT OF SNOW FALLS IN SOME KANSAS AREAS

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More snow and rain fell in broad areas of the country Friday with a snow covering of up to a foot in some places. Only sections of the Northeast and north central region appeared out of the wet belt.

Heaviest precipitation was in the Southern half of the country. Showers sprinkled the far Southwest, with scattered thunderstorms and rain eastward through the central part of the country from Kansas to Texas, through the Gulf Coast states and into Georgia and South Carolina.

Amounts were light in most areas except Oklahoma, Kansas, Missouri and parts of Texas. The rain belt extended northward in the mid-continent through Missouri and into Kansas, where rain turned snow in the northwest region. The snow band spread into southwest Nebraska and southward through Colorado and into New Mexico and also touched extreme northwest Texas.

Foot Of Snow

Heaviest snowfall was from southeastern Colorado through northwest Kansas, with falls averaging from 2 to 4 inches in a six-hour period. At Russell, Kan., snow on the ground measured a foot.

Heavy falls also were reported in parts of the Texas-Oklahoma Panhandle, with 5 inches of snow in some areas. Drifts in western areas of Oklahoma blocked highways.

In the Far West, heavy rain hit Southern California, with snow in mountain areas and dust storms in the Southwest desert region. Los Angeles was pelted by hail and rain and was cooled by temperatures of 46, a drop of 8 degrees in 2 1/2 hours.

BOWERS MAY SEEK U. S. POST

HARRISBURG (AP) — Clarence P. Bowers, Reading battery manufacturer, was reported Friday considering seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate as a running mate of Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman.

Bowers would neither confirm nor deny the report, which came from a source close to Furman. The Waynesburg contractor is fighting the organization in his quest for the governorship.

Bowers, if he finally files, would oppose Gov. Leader. Leader, who already has organization endorsement, filed Bowers from the State Labor Relations Board last November.

"I'm not saying anything now about the senate, but I'm not interested in running for lieutenant governor or secretary of internal affairs," he told a newsmen.

Bowers parted with Leader over the governor's plan to give him a post on the Unemployment Compensation Board of Review. Since federal funds pay that salary, he would have been barred from participating in politics.

He has been serving as Furman's finance committee chairman for eastern Pennsylvania.
